Palestinian blitzkrieg in Lebanon

BEIRUT , Lebanon (UPI) — A second tank-led brigade of Palestinian troops crossed from Syria into Lebanon Tuesday and clashed in a fierce artillery battle with the Lebanese Army, capturing a strategic crossroads in the foothills of Mount Lebanon, official Lebanese sources said.

In the war-ravaged capital, heavy fighting involving Christian, Moslem and Palestinian forces raged into its third week as the toll for the past 48 hours of civil war climbed to more than 300 dead and 700 wounded.

Palestinian and Moslem forces, backed by troops and artillery columns of the Syrian-based Palestine Liberation Army that entered the country Monday, captured much of Lebanon Tuesday in a blitzkrieg that brought a desperate Christian appeal for U.N. or U.S. help.

A second group of an estimated 4,000 PLA troops crossed into east Lebanon Tuesday and joined an estimated 4,000 troops advancing through the Bekka Valley towards the foothills of Mt. Lebanon and the Christian city of Zahle 25 miles east of Beirut, official sources said.

Zahle, crammed with many of the 15,000 Christians flown out of the town of Damour by helicopter, was already under intensive siege.

The Palestinian forces advanced west from Chtoura about a mile to the crossroads of Maksi, the front position of the Lebanese army's defense lines in the foothills of Mt. Lebanon, the sources said.

"When the Palestinian advance force reached Maksi, it clashed with the army whose instructions were to defend the advance position," the sources said.

'Heavy exchanges of artillery took place and the army withdrew another mile into the Mt. Lebanon foothills. The clashes were still continuing two hours later," the sources said.

It was the PLA's first clash with the army since it began pouring men and artillery across the border several days ago.

There are now an estimated 9,000 PLA troops in the Bekka region and another 3,000 north in the Akkar, according to the sources.

One official source with access to military reports from the region said some persons believe "a large number" of the PLA troops in the Bekka were actually Syrian Army troops.

"They don't fight like the Palestinians normally do. They are shelling with artillery, then advancing, shelling and advancing. They are well-trained and experienced, which makes us suspect that at least some are Syrians," the source said.

However, the presence of Syrian Army troops could not be confirmed and another equally well informed source said he doubted they were in Lebanon.

Although the Moslem - Palestinian PLA push appears a major offensive, many in Beirut believe Syria itself is working for peace and that the fighting will taper off in a few days.

The Lebanese government has virtually disintegrated in the face of the offensive. None of the ministries was

Ziegfried and friends win one

The bewitching night hour was 11:08 p.m. Monday.

Barbara Monda, an educator by profession and chicken lover by choice, was not home writing lesson plans for her Schaumburg grade schoolers.

Instead, she sat patiently in the Arlington Heights Village Board chambers.

During three tedious hours, she had seen government dispense with important legislation that concerned garbage, flooding and other matters.

NOW, THE TRUSTEES were set to square off against — CHICKENS.

Specifically, Barbara Monda's five chickens.

There sat the elected officials: Anderson, Griffin, Schroeder, Ryan, Palmatier, Harms, Miller and Bettman.

At home were the five chickens: Ziegfried the rooster plus hens Hilda, Eureka, Frieda and Julena.

Because chickens easily catch cold, they were nestled together in sleep, awaiting 3 o'clock Tuesday morning when Ziegfried would shout, "Cock-a-doodle-doo!"

It was an important chicken decision.

Shall more than two pets be kept within the same Arlington Heights household?

FURTHER, SHALL those pets be chickens?

Barbara Monda approached the microphone, firm in her purpose. "I was so tired, I just wanted to nod and go home," Barbara said later.

The eight trustees slumped forward in anticipation. Some rested their heads in hands or shuffled papers.

This is how you wrestle with a tough decision.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan questioned his fellow trustees, "What's the will of the board?"

The trustees were familiar with chickens. Barbara spoke before them last year when the five birds were found to be living at her home on Princeton Avenue.

She had made an elaborate presentation then, saying that chickens were productive and cause people to feel very nostalgic.

"They bring out people's feelings of being close to the land," Barbara said. "Isn't it beautiful? Look at the chicken."

NOW, SOMEONE asked if these were the same five chickens. Barbara said yes.

Another trustee wondered if a one-year variance to the ordinance could be granted, rather than just six months. It seemed reasonable.

Ryan asked for a vote.

Chickens won, 8-0.

It had taken less than one-half minute.

"I'm going home and kill the birds," Barbara joked while leaving the chambers. Three hours she waited for her 27 glorious seconds.

Then for a while, she could not

Ryan's campaign treasurer among contenders

4 have chance to fill Harms' post

by JOE SWICKARD
A News Analysis

Four persons have emerged as possible successors to Alice Harms, who resigned from the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday.

Mrs. Harms shocked the village board after Monday's meeting by submitting her letter of resignation. In it, she said she was leaving because she could not halt what she termed an erosion of nonpartisan village government.

"I'm not ruling anyone out," Village Pres. James T. Ryan said Tuesday. "I could give you a list of 30 or 40 names of persons qualified for the position. But then, I'd probably still leave some names out," he said.

THE EARLY CONTENDERS include past and present village officials and an officer in Village Pres. James T. Ryan's 1975 campaign.

The four are Dwight Walton, Jean Hanlon, Ralph Clarbour and Bruce Dodds.

Walton is a former village trustee and now chairman of the village Bicentennial Commission. He worked in the Ryan campaign. In 1971, Walton was the only Arlington Heights trustee to vote in favor of low and moderate income housing on the St. Viator property.

The housing question is now before the United States Supreme Court.

Mrs. Hanlon, chairman of the Environmental Control Commission, gained wide exposure in her efforts to block the proposed professional football stadium at Arlington Park Race Track.

HER POLITICAL ambitions are well known. Twice she unsuccessfully sought the endorsement of the Caucus political organization for a seat on the village board. She, too, was an active supporter of Ryan in the 1975 campaign.

Ralph Clarbour is a former village president and trustee. Clarbour remains active in village affairs as chairman of a special committee studying what role local government should take in social service agencies.

Clarbour has received a boost from John G. Woods, former village president and still a strong voice in village politics.

Woods said Clarbour has demonstrated continuing interest in the board by his regular attendance as an observer. Clarbour's experience and background weigh further in his favor, Woods said.

Clarbour declined to comment on his possible answer should he be offered the position.

DODDS IS vice president of the First Arlington National Bank and was Ryan's campaign treasurer in 1975 and remains close to him.

Dodds said although he is interested in a seat on the board, "Frankly I don't think it will be offered to me. I

Ryan to veto 8.3% garbage rate hike OKd by trustees

by BILL HILL

Garbage rate increases of 8.3 per cent have been approved by the Arington Heights Village Board but Village Pres. James T. Ryan has said he will veto the increase.

Ryan said he would give reasons for not signing the ordinance later this week. "I did some real soul-searching and feel very strongly about my position on this," he said Tuesday.

Ryan's action will be the first time he has used his veto power since being elected in April.

THE RATE schedule calls for monthly residential rates to increase 45 cents from $5.39 to $5.84. The amount is less than what had been requested by the Laseke Disposal Co.

Only Ryan and Trustee August Betman opposed the rate hike.

Officials from Laseke said they are seriously considering testing the exclusive, five-year village contract in the courts.

"We definitely will not accept that proposal," said Henry Laseke, president of the disposal company.

Laseke had requested a 12.8 per cent rate hike which would have put the residential rate at $6.08 per month. The additional increases were requested to cover increased fuel and postage costs, as well as higher social security payments.

UNDER THE contract, which is entering its third year, Laseke is guaranteed an annual 5 per cent increase, but may petiton the village for rate adjustments on the basis of unusual increases in operating costs.

The board agreed to reimburse Laseke for increased dumping costs at

Economic recovery seen in spite of GNP decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All major economic indicators showed the nation was solidly on the way to recovery at the end of 1975, Commerce Dept. spokesmen said Tuesday, although early-year recession dragged the Gross National Product into decline for a record second straight year.

Inflation was measured at 6.5 per cent during the last three months of 1975 — the second lowest quarterly rate in three years.

The spokesman said a 5.4 per cent rise in real GNP in the fourth quarter was not enough to offset earlier drops in 1975, so the nation's output of goods and services fell 2 per cent for the year following a 1.8 per cent drop in 1974.

The spokesman said in a year-end report there have never been back-to-back yearly drops in the broadest measure of national economic activity since record keeping began in 1946.

The GNP report nevertheless showed clearly the national economy was in recovery as the year ended with every major category of econom-

Motorist to face grand jury in death

An Arlington Heights woman faces involuntary manslaughter charges before the Cook County grand jury in connection with the Jan. 3 death of a Mount Prospect man. A coroner's jury Tuesday ruled that the case against Donna Walter, 19, of 1615 E. Central Rd., be submitted to the grand jury. Miss Walter had been charged with reckless homicide in connection with the death of Douglas Moore, 19, of 601 Prospect Ave., who died of shock and internal bleeding after he was struck by a car and pinned against a garage door at the Dana Point Apartments, where Miss Walter lives. Arlington Heights Det. Ronald Van Raalte told the coroner's jury that evidence indicates Miss Walter was the driver of the car that killed Moore.

Hulett quits Saudi Arabia post

Allen W. Hulett, who resigned as Elk Grove Village fire chief Dec. 31 to accept a job in Saudi Arabia, has quit his new job. An official of the International Civil Aviation Organization said Tuesday that Hulett had left his Saudi Arabian post. The former chief reportedly has returned to this area. Hulett, who served in the Elk Grove post for seven years, was hired by ICAO to develop an airport fire rescue training program for Saudi Arabia.

Gunman robs Des Plaines store

A Des Plaines food store was robbed Tuesday of nearly $400 in cash by a gunman who forced a clerk to empty a cash register. The robber also fled with a six-pack of beer. Lt. James Roel of the Des Plaines police said the man, in his 40s and of medium height and build, entered Pesche's Supermarket, 170 River Rd., about 5:30 p.m. The gunman pretended to shop for a few minutes and placed the beer and some candy on the counter before pulling a revolver and announcing the robbery, Roel said. Several employes witnessed the incident and told police the gunman fled on foot from the store.

RTA favors city: Thompson

James R. Thompson, Republican candidate for governor, Tuesday said the Regional Transportation Authority has been spending more of its funds in the city of Chicago than in the rest of the six-county area. Financial records show "an imbalance" between the money the RTA spends on suburban transit service and money it spends on the Chicago Transit Authority, Thompson said. He said the RTA receives 34.1 per cent of its income from Chicago, but the CTA gets more than 70 per cent of the RTA budget. "It wouldn't take all that much to change it if the people who are running RTA had the notion that they were responsible to the region — not responsible to one city."

Mobile home tax constitutional

The Illinois Supreme Court Tuesday ruled the mobile home privilege tax is a constitutional method of taxation. The privileg tax is levied on the basis of a mobile home's square footage. It is levied only on homes hat are occupied and is intended to be for mobile homes what the real estate tax is for permanent dwellings. The ruling overturned a St. Clair County Circuit Court decision in a case filed by two mobile home owners. Their suit argued it is a "right," rather than a "privilege," to live in a mobile home and that habitation rights may not be taxed.

With lack of Dem candidates' support

Honesty coalition 'disappointed'

The leaders of a drive to have three constituional amendments aimed at improving political honesty in Illinois expressed disappointment Tuesday because none of the five regular Democratic statewide candidates have endorsed their effort.

Patrick Quinn, secretary-treasurer of the Coalition for Political Honesty, said "it appears the citizens of the state apparently are way ahead of some of the politicians in terms of this reform."

Quinn said the group will announce today Republican gubernatorial candidate, James R. Thompson, has lent his support to the drive to collect 375,000 signatures to get the three amendments on the ballot in November.

Sec. of State Michael Howlett, the regular Democratic candidate for governor, said he is in favor of political honesty, but opposes the wording of the proposed amendment.

QUINN SAID ALL candidates seeking statewide office were sent registerd letters asking for their support. He noted Gov. Daniel Walker has not responded to the group's request.

Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan, who is seeking reelection, was critical of the coalition's effort and suggested the drive was sponsored by Walker. He noted several citizen's groups, including the Independent Voters of Illinois, have not endorsed the effort.

Quinn, who had worked as an assistant to the governor, denied the campaign was a partisan effort. He pointed out a number of public officials from both political parties have endorsed the drive. He also stated the Illinois chapter of Common Cause endorsed the drive last weekend.

Quinn said the drive has reached about 25 per cent of its goal. The three amendments would prohibit legislators from collecting their salaries in advance, prohibit "double dipping" and set up tough, new conflict of interest laws.

BESIDES HOWLETT and Hartigan, State Treasurer Alan Dixon, a candidate for secretary of state; Michael Bakalis, candidate for comptroller; and State Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, a candidate for attorney general, all stated they would not endorse the coalition's effort.

Joanne Alter, Walker's running mate for lieutenant governor, announced Monday she is supporting the drive and predicted the effort will be successful.

Quinn said persons interested in obtaining petitions can contact the Coalition at 44 Washington Blvd., Oak Park or by calling 383-8422.

Home prison sentence approved for Barrett

by United Press International

Former Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett, 75, a onetime Illinois political powerhouse who was convicted of bribery, will be permitted to serve his prison sentence at his home, federal prison officials said Tuesday.

Barrett, 75, recently was denied a request for probation from his three-year sentence for bribery, tax evasion and mail fraud and was scheduled to begin serving his term Tuesday at the Metropolitan Correctional Center, a federal detention center in Chicago.

But because of Barrett's failing health, Correctional Center Warden William R. Nelson said the U. S. Bureau of Prisons designated Barrett's Chicago home as his place of confinement.

NELSON SAID IT was the first time he had heard of a federal convict being allowed to serve his sentence at home.

"We have been confronted with the very grave medical condition of Mr. Barrett," he said, "and it was decided that it would be in the best interests of the prison and of Mr. Barrett for him to serve his sentence at home. He will be on medical furlough."

Barrett, a World War II, hero was one of the most potent vote-getters in Illinois politics and a power in the Chicago Democratic apparatus. His influence had begun to wane even before he was found guilty on charges of taking kickbacks on the sale of voting machines to Cook County.

Last month, Thomas Foran, Barrett's attorney, told U. S. District Court Judge Richard Austin Barrett's health kept him bed-ridden. A government appointed doctor said Barrett "needs 24-hour nursing attention" and a federal prosecutor also urged he be placed on probation.

Austin refused to grant probation and said prison authorities would have to determine where Barrett would serve his sentence.

UNDER THE MEDICAL furlough, Barrett will not be allowed to leave his home without permission from prison authorities in Washington. Nelson said Barrett would not be guarded.

Barrett was convicted in 1973, on six counts of bribery, six counts of mail fraud and four counts of income tax evasion for accepting $180,000 in bribes from a Pennsylvania voting machine company. Barrett also was fined $15,000. Last May 12, the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review his case.

Foran has said Barrett suffers from emphysema, heart disease, cirrhosis of the liver, hypertension, cataracts, a hernia and an infection draining from an opening in the right side of his chest stemming from a wound he suffered during World War II.

RTA to receive $47 million in operating aid

The Regional Transportation Authority will receive $47 million in operating assistance funds from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, RTA chairman Milton Pikarsky said Tuesday.

The money represents partial payment of $50.5 million in UMTA funding that the RTA is eligible to receive under the 1974 Mass Transportation Assistance Act.

Under the agreement, the RTA will immediately receive $35.8 million earmarked for the Chicago Transit Authority's operating deficits through January 1976.

The remaining $11.2 million will be allocated in monthly payments through June 1976.

The additional funds will be available to suburban bus carriers.

An additional $3.5 million will be paid after the RTA completes additional agreements.

The $50.5 million represents two years of funding for fiscal 1975 and 1976. The funds were budgeted last year by the RTA.

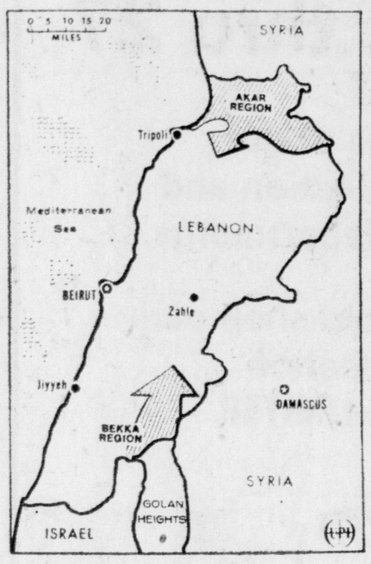
Palestinians launch Lebanon blitzkrieg



PALESTINIAN and Moslem forces led by thousands of PLA troops from Syria seized most of the Lebanese countryside Tuesday. The troops captured the Akkar region in the north, and most of the Bekka area in south.

open and nobody appeared to be giving any orders.

The invaders' objective was not clear but the Maksi junction gives them routes across the 5,000-foot high mountains to south and central Lebanon.

One source said he thought the attackers might try to move into the mountain region and spread out along its tip to prevent the possibility of partition that has become greater and greater as Lebanon's nine-month-old civil war drags on.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said the United States would oppose all outside intervention in Lebanon's civil war. Diplomatic observers said direct foreign intervention — by Syria or Israel — could spark a new Middle East war.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford "is watching the situation closely." He said Ford urged both sides to display a "spirit of compromise."

The three-front offensive by the left-wing Palestinian and Moslem forces signaled the possible start of the showdown battle in Lebanon's nine-month-old civil war.

Helicopters evacuated thousands of refugees from Christian towns and villages as the Palestinian-Moslem juggernaut advanced across northern, southern and eastern Lebanon.

Troops of the Syrian-based Palestine Liberation Army joined some 15,000 Lebanese Moslems and Lebanese-based Palestinians in the armor, infantry and artillery drive across the divided nation of 2.9 million.

Reliable Lebanese sources said the Palestinian-Moslem forces captured all of the Akkar region in the north, most of the Bekaa Valley in the east and the Christian towns of Damour and Jiyyeh along the southern coast.

Officials sources in Beirut said about 7,000 Syrian-based troops invaded Lebanon, but authoritative diplomatic sources in New York, London and Jerusalem said only 1,200 to 2,000 soldiers were involved.

The sources said the PLA, the regular army of the Palestinian movement, was mainly serving as a back-up force with Lebanon-based Palestinians and Moslems doing most of the fighting. They said there had been no contact between the PLA and the Lebanese army.

Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, a leader of Lebanon's beleaguered Christian community, said the invasion force included regular Syrian army troops, but authoritative diplomatic sources denied the presence of Syrians.

Kissinger, who stopped in Copenhagen on the way to Moscow, said the United States "has warned all outside parties — and I want to repeat this here — against any unilateral act which would expand the conflict."

Reacting to reports that 7,000 Palestinian troops based in Syria had joined Moslem allies in Lebanon, Kissinger told a news conference, "This is a tragedy for all parties.

"It could bring in outside parties and could jeopardize what has been achieved in the Middle East."

"The United States has warned all outside parties — and I want to repeat this here — against any unilateral act which would expand the conflict," Kissinger said.

The secretary's statement was the strongest to date of U.S. suport for the integrity of Lebanon. Officials traveling with Kissinger said it was aimed as much at Israel as at Syria and other Arab nations that might intervene.

In Jersalem, an official governent source said Israel "will not be able to remain indifferent," to a Syrian invasion of Lebanon but played down the intervention of Syrian-based Palestinian troops in the Lebanese civil war.

Israeli officials said between 1,500 and 2,000 Palestinian Liberation Army troops moved into Lebanon from Syria in recent days but suggested Christian leaders in Beirut were exaggerating the threat.

Christian reports from Lebanon said there were as many as 15,000.

"It looks like Lebanese Interior Camille Chamoun is giving out doomsday pronouncements . . . and what he is saying is not true, from all our indications," one official said.

THE BODIES of victims killed during the right-wing Phalangist assault on the Beirut slum distict of Karantine lie waiting for collection Tuesday. Palestinian and Moslem forces, meantime, backed by Palestinian armored columns from Syria, captured much of Lebanon in a blitzkrieg.

Israel, Syria hold war key

Diplomats agree Mideast situation 'very grave'

by United Press International

Middle East and Western diplomats said Tuesday the situation in Lebanon was "very, very grave" and that the danger of a new Middle East war was great. But they said all indications were that the Arab world was putting the lid on the situation to prevent another confrontation with Israel at this time.

There were indications from Tel Aviv that Israel also was trying to play down the gravity of the situation. Israel has threatened to take "defensive measures" if Syria invaded Lebanon but official spokesmen denied reports by Lebanese Interior Minister Camille Chamoun that Syrians had entered Lebanon and accused him of making "doomsday" pronouncements.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in Copenhagen enroute to Moscow, attempted further to dampen the crisis by warning "all outside parties" through diplomatic channels against intervention in Lebanon.

In Washington President Ford's chief spokesman Ron Nessen said Ford was keeping an eye on the civil war and that he urged both sides to display "moderation and a spirit of compromise."

Diplomats genrally agreed that direct intervention by Israel or Syria would lead to the fifth Middle East war since the formation of Israel in 1948.

Edouard Ghorra, the Lebanese ambassador to the United Nations, said, "the situation is very, very grave" and that "these are very serious developments." He conferred frequently with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim who was reported concerned about the possibility of a new Middle East war.

UPI U.N. correspondent Reinhard Sorge quoted Arab diplomatic sources as saying the Arab nations, particularly Egypt, were trying to put the lid on the situation because they did not want a showdown with Israel now.

UPI correspondent Maurice Guindi said from Cairo that despite the worsening Lebanese situation Arab diplomats privately voiced strong doubts that the crisis will erupt into a full-scale Middle East war.

Despite Syrian sabre-rattling, Syria would be wary of triggering a war with Israel without the assurance of full Egyptian participation.

U P I correspondent Joseph W. Grigg, in a disptach from London said the reported invasion of Lebanon by Syrian-backed PLA troops set alarm bells ringing in Western capitals. He said there are growing fears that if war did break out the United States, the Soviet Union and the Arab oil states inevitably would be drawn into it.

Too much secret material leaked

House panel ending probe of CIA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Intelligence Committee prepared Tuesday to wind up its investigation of the CIA by the end of the month with even its chairman declaring too much secret material was being leaked to the press.

Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N. Y., said he would not seek an extension of the life of the committee, due to expire Jan. 31, because of widespread leaks to the media of classified information.

The administration, sources said, wants Congress to follow up the year-long investigation of the U. S. intelligence community with legislation imposing penalties ranging from fines to expulsion from committees or Congress itself against congressmen leaking classified material to the press.

Pike gave no indication of his view of such legislative possibilities, but he said "It is time that this committee wrapped up its work."

He added "I personally am opposed to getting more time for a couple of reasons. I am concerned because of the number of leaks that have evolved. The sooner we finish this, the sooner that will end."

Pike did not accuse any House committee or staff member of responsibility for the leaks to the media, nor did he give specific examples.

The administration was also reported pressing for a British-style Official Secrets Act under which the executive could bar publication of material it considered hostile to the national interest.

Typical of the leaks which troubled Pike and the administration were reports Tuesday from congressional sources that the 340-page committee draft report accuses the CIA of hiding the true extent of U. S. military aid to anticommunist factions in Angola.

The report, the sources said, states the CIA undervalued some equipment as much as 50 per cent, hence making the real value of Angolan military aid far higher than the $31 million the Administration says has been sent there.

The draft report also discloses, according to these sources, that U. S. intelligence officials knew within one hour of the assassination of U. S. Ambassador to Cyprus Rodger P. Davies on Aug. 19, 1974 that he was killed by right-wing Cypriot police officers. Despite U. S. protests, the sources said, the killers have never been prosecuted or fired.

The House committee Tuesday began closed discussions on the draft report.

Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., who was dropped from the committee after earlier leaks of information to the media, announced he would introduce legislation to make any future covert activity by the CIA illegal, limiting CIA activity strictly to the gathering and analysis of intelligence.

President Ford promised in his State of the Union message Monday to reform U. S. spy agencies. The plan may put all spying operations under the direct control of the White House.

ic activity rising from the third to the fourth quarter.

GNP measures the nation's total production of goods like cars, refrigerators, houses, factory equipment and services such as medical, legal, insurance, banking.

While GNP was rising as 1975 ended, Commerce spokesmen said inflation was falling. Although inflation was measured at 8.7 per cent for the year — down from 9.7 per cent in 1974 — it was estimated at 6.5 per cent in the fourth quarter.

Spokesmen said GNP after adjustment for inflation was estimated at $1,186 billion in 1975, down from $1,210 billion in 1974 and $1,233 billion in 1973.

GNP in the fourth quarter was estimated at an annual adjusted rate of $1,217 billion, up from $1,202 billion in the third quarter. Third quarter GNP rose 12 per cent from the second quarter when the 1974-75 recession officially ended.

Although the 5.4 per cent increase was less than half the 12 per cent rise in the third quarter, and 1.1 per cent lower than officials said they expected last week, the spokesmen said it was an indication recovery from the nation's worst recession since World War II was continuing.

Carter wins in Iowa caucus vote

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Jimmy Carter was the runaway Democratic winner, but there appeard no real losers Tuesday in Iowa's first-in-the nation precinct presidential caucus elections.

With 88 per cent of Monday's Democratic vote tallied, the former Georgia governor figured to take 27.6 per cent of Iowa's potential national convention delegates, based on a statistical formula devised by the state party.

The largest bloc, however, — 37.1 per cent — was uncommitted. It was an unusually large percentage, likely to cause the campaign in Iowa to remain fluid since delegates selected at the precinct level are not legally bound by their stated preferences.

Carter's nearest opponent was Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, with 13.2 per cent. Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris declared a victory of sorts with his 10 per cent showing. Trailing were Rep. Morris Udall, with a disappointing 6 per cent, R. Sargent Shriver with 3.4 per cent, and Washington Sen. Henry Jackson, listed among the 2.9 per cent "others."

On the Republican side, President Ford nosed out Ronald Reagan by less than 3 per cent in a straw poll of 2 per cent of the state's 2,600 precincts. Reagan's staff said it was pleased by the extent of the former California governor's support in Iowa.

Carter told an airport crowd in Manchester, N. H., Tuesday he considered his showing a "very valuable asset," but stressed he would resist being labeled the "front-runner."

Although Carter got the biggest boost from the caucus balloting, the neighborhood meetings that took place at more than 5,000 locations across Iowa were only the first step of a four-part process for selecting delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions, and ultimately nominating the parties' candidates.

No Democratic candidate appeared knocked out or even severely damaged by the Iowa vote.

There are indications that the results of the GOP straw poll would quickly intensify the GOP campaign in Iowa.

Ford to propose $394.2 billion budget

President Ford today will propose a $394.2 billion budget which promises the country it will be defended, its most needy will be cared for, and most of its citizens and businesses will pay less federal tax. The budget is the first he can call his own — the last one was formulated largely under Richard Nixon. Many of his proposals are expected to face rough going in Congress.

Four charged in Florida terror spree

Two men, a woman and a juvenile were arrested Tuesday by a special police task force established to track down a band of masked bandits that spread terror through Central Florida in series of sadistic murders, robberies and rapes. The four were jailed in Polk County under $250,000 bond. They were charged initially with buying, receiving and concealing stolen property. "We believe this is the group that has been terrorizing the people the past several months," said Hillsborough County Sheriff Malcolm Beard.

Britain, France begin supersonic flights

Britain and France open the supersonic passenger flight era Wednesday with the takeoff of two jointly produced Concorde jets whose noise and costs could turn the venture into a $3 billion fiasco. Each of the big birds will carry a crew of 12 and 100 passengers on the runs to Bahrain and Rio de Janeiro, peaking at 10 miles high and 1,350 miles per hour, twice the speed of sound. Speed is the primary selling point of an aircraft that, because of its mighty roar and hefty price of $60 million each, might never make the run to the United States or sell overseas. Both are essential to its survival and growth.

Soviet-backed rebels retreat in Angola

Soviet-supported guerrillas fell back Tuesday after suffering heavy losses in what may have been the start of the decisive series of battles of the Angolan civil war, a spokesman for Western-backed forces said. Western-supported troops defending the 500-mile southern front in the civil war expected another major offensive momentarily once the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola replaced its losses.

In tour of Illinois

Wallace raps judiciary again

by STEVE BROWN

Alabama Gov. George Wallace heaped more criticism on the judiciary Tuesday as his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination took a swing through Illinois.

Wallacee, who stoppd in Springfield, Peoria and Chicago, also charged other Democratic presidential candidates were teaming up to block his latest bid for the White House, but offered no solid proof to back the allegations.

Wallace continued to assail the judicial system as being too powerful, but stepped back a bit from his recent remark that a big Wallace vote would serve as a "political barbed wire enema for some federal judges."

"That isn't a very dignified thing for a presidential candidate to say, but I have seen a lot of judges around who have exceeded their constitutional power," he said.

WALLACE ALSO criticized the recent court-ordered minority hiring ruling for the Chicago Police Dept. He said he opposed any kind of hiring system which sets racial quotas.

"The most qualified persons are the ones that should be on the force," he added.

In commenting on other issues, Wallace said:

• He did not know who the front runners were in the Democratic presidential derby or what effect exGeorgia Gov. Jimmy Carter's victory in the Iowa delegate caucuses Monday would have on his campaign:

• He is opposed to President Ford's call for an increase in Social Security taxes, urging a closer monitoring of the general welfare system as a means of getting more revenue for the program;

• He expected to "do very well" in the Illinois primary March 16, but carefully avoided any predictions of how many delegates he expected to win.

Wallace told about 100 supporters after a press conference that he will return to Illinois to campaign, adding that he "may talk a little stronger than my talk here with newsmen" in later appearances.

The governor, who is confined to a wheelchair and uses a hearing aid as a result of a 1972 assassination attempt, had some trouble hearing reporters' questions, but said his doctors report his health is fine.

Wallace campaign workers said it is too early to tell how many delegates Wallace would win. They have suggested their candidate could prove to be a spoiler in the grudge battle between Mayor Richard Daley and Gov. Daniel Walker, who are both running slates of candidates. Wallace supporters filed the largest bloc of delegate candidates for the March primary.

Chickens win reprieve

stop laughing. It was all so official.

YOU MIGHT ask Barbara, why chickens?

"People have dogs. That's great," she said. "But dogs you have to take for a walk. We do have a cat and a couple godfish. What's goldfish? Just decorations on a shelf.

"It's all quite accidental that I went into chickens," Barbara said. "I had no intentions. It all started in the incubator."

She began raising chickens in her fourth-grade class at Nathan Hale School in Schaumburg. But these are different Buff Cochin Bantams at Barbara's home.

You might wonder how a chicken spends its day.

"Chickens get up at 3 o'clock in the morning," Barbara said. "They get out of their little beds, run down and scratch on their little floor.

"Then they eat and drink. The oldest chickens eat first while Ziegfried stands guard. If any of the little squirts come along, they're chased away."

CHICKENS LEAVE their three-by-four-foot house about 8 o'clock each weekday morning, later on the weekend. Then chickens romp around their playpen.

"Chickens mostly cackle at airplanes," Barbara said. "They symbolize the big bird in the sky who's gonna get them if they're bad. That's what the vet told me."

Occasionally, one will escape its playpen. Then Barbara must chase the little barnyard bird. That is not easy because chickens run in circles faster than people.

These are sophisticated chickens. They have enoough sense not to get wild and chase away all the local dogs and cats. It would make them unpopular.

Barbara said there are 34 neighborhood youngsters under first-grade age. The chickens have taught each one of them how to shout, "Cock-a-doodle-doo!"

Once last year, a man complained that Ziegfried was making too much noise. That's how the village first learned about her pets.

Barbara Monda gets to keep her chickens.

THE CHICKENS were sorry. Barbara talked with them and every chicken agreed to have more respect for other people's rights.

The man was sorry, too, and gave Barbara a paper to show the village board which said he really wasn't so angry.

"Our chickens are keeping a cool, low profile, clucking very softly," Barbara said.

"Chickens have a very rigid sense of right and wrong. They have a great sense of authority. There is no doubt that Ziegfried is boss."

Barbara thinks people should listen to her backyard birds. "Chickens are telling us what things are basic and should be treated with respect," she said.

"They say take life as it comes, stay in your pen, sit on your little eggs, scratch around, do what comes naturally."

MANY TIMES, however, all chickens say is "Coo" and "Peep."

But that's when chickens are thinking, mostly about keeping Barbara's hands off their eggs.

You see, chickens still haven't won that battle. Not even once.

And you were thinking that Barbara is a crazy lady. Shame on you.

Fewer students in older neighborhoods

Bigger dip seen in Dist. 59 rolls

by JUDY JOBBITT

Housing statistics from the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 1975 spring census show fewer children come from homes in older neighborhoods, which could contribute to greater declines in enrollment than were originally predicted.

The report, presented to the school board Monday, includes a breakdown of the number of children fromssix types of dwellings — single-family homes, apartments, condominium units, townhouses, quadroplex homes and duplex homes.

The district has about 10,500 single family homes, 7,400 apartment units and 1,000 condominium units. There also are about 330 townhouses, 225 quadroplex homes and 140 duplex homes.

SINGLE-FAMILY homes have a higher ratio of students per unit than the other types of housing. There are 1.34 students per single family home. Townhouses and duplex homes also have high ratios of students per unit with .98 students per townhouse and 1.18 students per duplex.

The report also shows schools in newer developments have higher ratios of students per unit in all categories. Arthur Perry, financial director, said the figures "suggest a tendency for 'empty-nesters' to remain in their homes after their children have left Dist. 59."

He said the figures might point to a greater decline in enrollment than originally predicted by the census because fewer young families are moving into the district.

The district predicted a 33 per cent drop in enrollment by the 1979-80 school year as indicated by census statistics. The district reached its peak enrollment in the 1971-72 school year when 11,629 students were enrolled. Enrollment dropped to 10,448 students this year, or a 10.2 per cent decline from the 1971-72 enrollment.

THE REPORT SHOWS the peak in junior high enrollment was reached during the 1973-74 school year when 4,106 students were in grades 6-8. The district expects junior high enrollment to drop by 22.7 per cent from the high point by the 1980-81 school year when 3,248 students are expected in the junior highs.

Perry said, "This loss, spread over five buildings, will be more apparent than the loss of elementary enrollment spread of sixteen buildings."

The report also shows that the number of births in the district also has dropped sharply during the past seven years. The peak in the number of births was reached in 1967 when 3,389 babies were born in the district. Last year's birth rate was 17.4 per cent less than the 1967 birth rate.

Perry said the decline in the number of births is "probably attributable both the maturation of the area as well as the known decline in birth rate."

He said housing and enrollment figures will require the district to look at planning differently than it has in the past.

'Guys and Dolls' set for Feb. 8 at school

Tickets are on sale for "Guys and Dolls," a musical review to be presented Feb. 8 by the Buffalo Grove High School Choral Guild.

The show will feature 35 songs and dances from five major Broadway shows. A cast of more than 90 students will dance and sing in the performance.

Tickets are available from students in the choral group and also will be sold at the door. Tickets are $1.50 for junior high age students and older and $1 for children. Curtain time is 2:30 p.m. at the theater of the school, 1101 Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

The review is one of the guild's major fund-raising projects this year. Proceeds will go toward summer music camp scholarships for outstanding students in the choral department and also will be used to support various activities of the department.

Students performing in the songs and dances from "West Side Story" are Sherri Blum, Diane Schreiber, Chris Farrell and Tim Merkel; "Bye-Bye Birdie," Jeff Phelps, Mike Osgood and Sarah Paine; "1776," Heidi Crosland, Howard Hollander, Tim Merkel, Ted Dubbs, Gail Gillingham, Ted Smart and Jeff Phelps; "Mame," Chris Farrell, Joy Thorbjornsen, and Kathi Kaszubowski; "Guys and Dolls," Sally Leadley, Ted Smart, Ted Dubbs, Jeff Phelps, Gerry Rice and Rob Wilson.

Linda McEachren of the music faculty will choreograph and direct the show.

the Wauconda landfill but rejected the other requests.

Lester Ploetz, an accountant for Laske, predicted the dispoal company will lose more than $167,000 during the next three years if it is not reimbursed.

"This is too much for the disposal company to swallow," he said. "It now becomes a matter for the attorneys to battle out on what the contract really means in terms of unusual increases."

PLOETZ ALSO said contract acceptance in 1973 "was in the light of a shotgun wedding with a bit of rape involved."

Ploetz said in 1973 the garbage contract was awarded verbally to Laseke and then, after bids were closed, a bid $1.03 a month lower was received from SCA Service Inc.

"Despite 45 years of service, Laseke was told he would do the job at this low, low rate or he'd be out," Ploetz said.

Ryan objected to Ploetz's charges saying "to suggest they were strong-armed belies the facts."

Ploetz also said "people only want good garbage service and couldn't care less about 24 cents."

Under the rate schedule approved by the village board, the commercial pickup rate will be $4.05 per month and the rate for schools will be $2.54.

Village urges IRS census data use

Arlington Heights village officials are urging residents to provide place of residence information in a special section of the 1975 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return forms.

The information is being requested by the U.S. Office of Revenue Sharing to update federal revenue-sharing payments to municipalities.

The updated population and per capita income information will be used by the revenue-sharing office in 1977-78.

Taxpayers who are unsure of which village, township or county they live in may call the Arlington Heights Village Clerk, 253-2340, or the census bureau office in Jeffersonville, Ind., (812) 948-2111.

The five-year-old federal revenue-sharing program will end this month unless extended by Congress.

Arlington Heights in 1975 received more than $387,000 through the program, said Finance Director Kenneth Bonder.

Harms' unexpected resignation sparks shock, regret

by JOE SWICKARD

The unexpected resignation of Trustee Alice Harms from the village board was met Tuesday with expressions of shock, surprise, regret and calls for reconsideration.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan, of whom she was highly critical in her letter of resignation, said, "Certainly I'm saddened that she decided to resign from the board."

Citing her active contributions to the board's deliberations, Ryan said, "She will be missed."

Trustee O. V. Anderson said, "I'm very upset. I think Alice was an asset to the board. The way she dug up information was just fantastic."

ANDERSON SAID the resignation probably was the result of a "clash of personalities" that might yet be resolved.

"I think she should be approached. Perhaps something can be worked out if she and Ryan can sit down across the table from one another," he said. "If they both sat down it would be the best thing in the world."

Trustee August Bettman,who has often clashed with Mrs. Harms on issues, called her decision "regrettable."

Bettman declined to comment further, saying, "It's too early to have a comment. I don't want to say anything to add any fuel to the fire. I'll need a few days to digest it."

TRUSTEE RICHARD Durava said "I don't think anyone was expecting it."

Durava, who left the board meeting before Mrs. Harms' resigned, said "Everyone has to decide in his own mind what is right," and added, "nothing I see in this village really surprises me anymore — nothing."

Trustee Frank Palmatier praised her diligence and independence. "I regret her decision to leave the board. She certainly has been a sincere, devoted hard-working trustee and has represented a highly independent viewpoint," he said.

Palmatier said he disagreed with some of Mrs. Harms' stated reasons for leaving the board.

L.A. Hanson

James T. Ryan

"I FEEL RUDY Hanson (village manager) is also a devoted public servant and completely honest and completely devoted to the well being of Arlington Heights and the same is true with Jim Ryan," he said.

"We can't always expect a unanimity in views. I'm sorry she has given up the fight," Palmatier said.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, who also came under fire in Mrs. Harms' letter of resignation, said he had "no comment" on either her letter or resignation.

Trustee Madeline Schroeder joined the call for a reconciliation between Mrs. Harms and Ryan.

"I HATE TO SEE her resign. I would hope she would reconsider. I will ask her if she will, but I am sure she has gone through a great deal of soul searching, so I won't put any pressure on her to change her mind," Mrs. Schroeder said.

Past village presidents John G. Woods and Ralph Clarbour expressed surprise and some dismay at her action.

"MY REACTION is one of great sadness," said Woods, still a potent political force in the village. "I would hope that both parties — all parties — could reconsider and some differences be reconciled.

"I'm especially disappointed by the depth of the misunderstandings," Woods said. "If it is productive, I would urge a reconciliation or reconsideration. It would be highly desirable."

Clarbour said, "I've always thought quite highly of Alice. She is one of the finest trustees Arlington Heights has ever had."

He said some of her reasons for resigning were probably justified but "the timing of it came as a bit of a surprise."

"IT WILL AFFECT severely the balance of the board. We are losing a tremendous amount of experience and background," Clarbour said.

While some were calling for a reconsideration, both Ryan and Mrs. Harms appeared to rule it out.

"One doesn't reach these decisions lightly. It would be unrealistic," she said.

"Now we have to pick a successor who can contribute to the board," Ryan said. "I would respect her reasons. As a matter of law her resignation became effective as of the time it was submitted."

would be surprised."

He said, "I am interested, but I would prefer to be elected."

Ryan refused to comment on any specific hopefuls for the vacancy, but said the impending budget hearings puts the board "under the gun" to fill it.

He said a special meeting of the board scheduled for Monday will probably hear consideration of the vacancy question. The meeting was called earlier to consider instituting an area representation form of government in the village.

RYAN SAID the successor would not be named behind closed doors.

"This is going to be done in open meetings," he said. "I think very few matters should be considered at closed sessions. These deliberations will be done openly."

He said competition for her position on the board is open to all.

"The only people ruled out are those who are not residents of the village," Ryan said.

Traditionally, vacancies on the board of trustees have been filled after executive sessions without the names of the unsuccessful contenders being made public.

Resignations called officials' fault

by STIRLING MORITA and BILL HILL

Former Arlington Heights Trustee Alice Harms implied Tuesday that recent employe resignations were spurred by departmental manipulation by Village Pres. James T. Ryan and Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

"Why did Capt. (Jack) Aldrich and Capt. (Irvin) McDougall leave the police department? Why did Rich Stern and Wil Fabis leave the planning department?" Mrs. Harms said after resigning from the village board saying she was "powerless."

However, only one of the three men she mentioned agreed Tuesday that internal problems resulted in resignation.

Aldrich, who left the police department last November to become Barrington Hills' police chief, said, "I was never listened to in the police department by the administration."

HE SAID THE administration appeared "not open and not receptive."

Stern, who resigned in July 1974 to take a planner's job with a private firm, said he resigned only because he got a better job offer.

"I found Arlington Heights to be a very good employer and the people very competent," he said. "I received no pressure to resign."

McDougall left the police department at the end of December to head the Mendota Police Dept. The former captain said lack of advancement in the department was one of the reasons for leaving, but he added he was not dissatisfied with the department.

Mrs. Harms charged: "The board's access to complaints about or requests for services is almost nil, making it difficult if not impossible to assess citizen needs; the board never sees original department requests at budget time to see if the needs are being adequately addressed."

She said her resignation resulted primarily from "a realization that I am powerless to change the course of important aspects of our village government, which in my opinion are critically in need of change."

MRS. HARMS predicted the downfall of nonpartisan politics in the village if personal priorities, "arm-twisting and press agentry" continue.

She criticized Hanson's policies, comparing them to a "form of one-man rule as Mayor Daley's Chicago."

Mrs. Harms attacked Ryan's proposal to change village board representation from an at-large to a district system. A meeting on the proposal is planned Jan. 26.

"That needs to be thoroughly aired and thoroughly discussed," she said. "There are a lot of things about it that aren't being said."

She said Ryan's proposal is "an attempt to exploit people's dissatisfaction with unresponsiveness when the basic problem is not with the system, but how he is allowing it to be operated.

Controversy marks Harms' tenure

Alice Harms' 12-year tenure as an Arlington Heights official has been marked by her stands on controversial issues.

In 1974 she bucked other trustees when she backed park district officials in questioning Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson's management of a land donation policy. The park district charged Hanson was short-changing the district in conveying land dedications by builders.

Her views often have conflicted with Village Pres. James T. Ryan since his election in April 1975. She endorsed his opponent, David Griffin, in that election.

When the Chicago Bears stadium question surfaced last spring Mrs. Harms was one of the first to oppose it saying the negative effects of the facility would not be confined to the racetrack property.

IN JULY 1975 she unsuccessfully opposed the construction of a $750,000 equipment maintenance garage because she considered it too large.

Most recently she has opposed Ryan on whether the Village of Arlington Heights should apply for $134,000 in community development funds.

That proposition was turned down by the board last year because of possible "strings" attached to the funds, especially the requirement that a housing assistance plan be filed. She unsuccessfully opposed it again this year.

Alice Harms

She began her involvement in village affairs in 1963 when she was named to the zoning board of appeals. She was the first woman to be appointed to a village post.

After serving two years on the plan commission, Mrs. Harms ran for a two-year vacancy term on the village board. In that election against John Collins and in her re-election bid in April 1973, she was the leading vote-getter at the polls.

Housing bias in suburbs must be proved: U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Suburbs must be shown to have actively discriminated against minorities before courts can compel them to accept low-income housing, the government's top lawyer told the Supreme Court Tuesday.

Solicitor Gen. Robert Bork urged the justices to overturn an appeals court ruling which requires the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development to subsidize construction of low-income housing in six suburban counties to relieve segregation in Chicago.

The suit, brought in 1966 by black residents of a Chicago high-rise, 100 per cent black public housing projects, contends that HUD cooperated with the Chicago Housing Authority and the City Council to limit public housing to predominantly black neighborhoods.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS is involved in a similar housing-segregation issue which the Supreme Court has agreed to review this spring.

The case involves the Village of Arlington Heights' opposition to a low-and moderate-income housing project to be built near St. Viator High School. Last June, the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that the village's refusal to rezone the 15 acres southeast of the school for the Lincoln Green townhouse project was "racially discriminatory." The village appealed the decision to the Supreme Court.

In effect, the Chicago case raises for housing the same issue the Supreme Court resolved in 1974 in school desegregation cases: Under what circumstances can courts involve suburbs in plans to end inner city segregation.

In the Detroit school case, the high court ruled there must be proof a suburb was actively guilty of discrimination that contributed to city segregation before it can be involved in a cross-district school busing plan.

TUESDAY, Bork told the justices the same logic must be applied to desegregation of public housing.

He conceded HUD, while attemping to ease the City Council's segregated housing policies, nevertheless continued to fund them. But he added there was no proof suburbs had encouraged housing segregation in Chicago, and therefore any court order must be limited exclusively to the Chicago city limits.

"The communities involved here have done no wrong whatsoever and do not want public housing, but it would still be thrust upon them," Bork said.

"The discrimination took place in the City of Chicago and the courts should not impose a remedy on counties that are strangers to this action."

BORK SAID imposing public housing on the suburbs without showing they had discriminated themselves "will destroy neighborhood planning and the governmental units in the cities surrounding Chicago."

Alexander Polikoff, a Chicago lawyer representing public housing residents, argued that the lower court order applied only to HUD, and the suburbs would be affected only indirectly.

He said HUD should not approve government subsidies for private developers or public housing authorities for low-income housing in the suburbs unless they are constructed in predominantly white neighborhoods and accept some Chicago public housing residents as tenants.

In addition, Polikoff said HUD designated the six-county area as a single housing market, and therefore the court of appeals ruling did not involve crossing housing market districts. But he conceded that the decision would cross political boundaries.

Discotheque lawyer charges bias

The attorney for the Giraffe discotheque has asked Arlington Heights Trustee Richard Durava to not participate in liquor license discussions for the business because of personal bias against him.

Richard Cowen made the request after an argument with Durava in which Cowen questioned why Durava had not attended a previous committee meeting on the license controversy.

"As a trustee you have the obligation to attend subcommittee meetings," Cowen said.

"I don't need a political hack to tell me what my obligations are," Durava said.

COWEN IS a former Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman.

"I seriously question whether you should continue to hear this matter. You are obviously biased against the counsel for this client," Cowen said. He added that he considered Durava's comment "personally insulting and derogatory."

"The problem is that if I remove myself from this committee then we'd only have one member — Madeline (Schroeder)," Durava said.

Durava also insisted that his "political hack" comment was not made directly to Cowen.

Durava was serving as chairman of the public health and safety committee because Alice Harms resigned from the village board Monday. Mrs. Schroeder and Durava are the only other trustees on the committee.

THE COMMITTEE met in an attempt to resolve the liquor license controversy at the Giraffe, 2121 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Village officials and the discotheque operators disagree whether the Giraffe can legally operate under the Class AA liquor license issued to the Brass Rail restaurant adjoining the discotheque.

The village's Class AA license requires the sale of alcoholic beverages be incidental to the serving of food.

The Giraffe has been operating under a grace period from the village board while the committee studies the Garage death case to grand jury

A Cook County Coroner's jury Tuesday ruled the Jan. 3 death of Douglas Moore of Mount Prospect in the underground garage of an Arlington Heights apartment complex was involuntary manslaughter.

The jury ordered the case against Donna Walter, 19, of 1615 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, be submitted to the county grand jury. Miss Walter had been charged with reckless homicide in connection with the incident at the complex where she resides, Dana Point Apartments.

Moore, 19, of 601 E. Prospect Ave., died of shock and internal bleeding after suffering multiple injuries when he was struck by a car in the garage, a coroner's report showed.

DURING A CORONER'S inquest at Oehler's Funeral Home, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights Det. Ronald Van-Raalte testified there was evidence of reckless conduct and that preliminary laboratory report indicates Miss Walter was the driver of the car that killed Moore.

Van Raalte said preliminary reports also showed he car was in "excess of 18 miles per hour" and that Moore was struck by the car and carried a distance before the car crashed into a section of the overhead door and garage wall, pinning him.

He reported there were no signs of any braking and that about 70 feet of skid marks were found, but the marks were made by car acceleration.

There were no witnesses to the incident, Van Raalte testified. Miss Walter and Moore had been attending a birthday party in the building and were leaving to go to a local bar when the incident occurred, other persons testified.

Bruno Leibleich, building superintendent for the complex, said a tenant had told him he saw a woman arguing with a man in the garage about the time of the incident and that "the girl was mad at the boy."

Man held on battery, robbery charges

A man, arrested last year as part of an alleged holdup gang that preyed on Mexican busboys, was charged Tuesday with the July 8 robbery and stabbing of a 32-year-old Arlington Heights man, police said.

Jose Avila, 19, was charged with armed robbery and aggravated battery. Avila was in the DuPage County Jail, along with two other members of the gang, on charges stemming from robberies in Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Palatine and Bloomingdale.

Antonio Almarez, 32, was stabbed July 8 while in his brother's apartment above the Countryside Inn in downtown Arlington Heights. Police said they were unable to charge any members of the gang when they were arrested Aug. 16 because Almarez had returned to Mexico. Almarez returned to the area recently, and charges against Avila were filed.

Britain may give $1 million to '76 fete

LONDON (UPI) — It's 200 years ago this year that an imperial Britain lost its Maerican colonies.

Now Britain plans to fork out about $1 million to celebrate that fact.

Foreign Sec. James Callaghan disclosed this in a written reply to a question by Audrey Wise, a Labor party member of parliament.

"The government," Callaghan said, "proposes to allocate up to half a million pounds — $1 million — for the official British contributions to the celebrations commemorating the Bicentenniary of the United States of America."

MRS. WISE was not amused.

"I really wouldn't spend a penny on the Bicentennial celebrations as such," she said.

"The whole thing is a rather ludicrous pantomime satire. If we really want to contribute, let us donate toward a hospital in Vietnam."

The Guardian newspaper was almost as indignant as Mrs. Wise.

It described the loss of the American colonies as "arguably one of our greatest achievements."

It described the $1 million tab as "rather staggering" and said a lot of questions are likely to be asked in the House of Commons "considering the irony of such big spending in such reduced circumstances as Britain now endures."

MOREOVER, the Guardian said, "the news came not from Paul Revere's descendants but from the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Callaghan."

Callaghan's list of the various items on which the British government will spend money on the Bicentennial celebrations included: funds for a joint five-year program with the United States of exchange fellowships in the creative and performing arts; and expenses in connection with a one-year loan by Parliament to Congress of Magna Carta, the document which King John's barons forced him to sign in 1215 and which is regarded as the basis of human rights legislation in both countries.

The Guardian commented acidly, "even with inflation hang-gliding at its present rate, all this seems a great deal of interest to pay — albeit in tacit thanks for the helpful hands extended across the ocean so many times over the last — well — 50 years by that errant collection of offspring colonies."

EPA should enforce noise controls: Mikva

The time has come to strip the Federal Aviation Administration of its aircraft noise control authority, said U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, Tuesday before the U.S. House of Representatives Aviation Subcommittee.

Charging the FAA has turned a deaf ear to the noise problem, Mikva said the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency should enforce aircraft noise controls.

Mikva proposed that the Noise Control Act of 1973 be amended to give the EPA authority for setting aircraft noise limits and research deadlines for related research by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Since 1969, the FAA has been busily engaged in holding hearings, commissioning studies, proposing rules and issuing press releases about noise," Mikva said. "All this activity cannot hide the fact that in six years, nothing significant beyond the cosmetic 'keep-em-high' approach has occurred."

Airlines share some of the blame for the noise problem, Mikva said. He said the FAA is primarily at fault, however, because it has not enforced the use of anti-noise technology. Retrofitting four engine jets, better flap management and other procedures would be a great help to people who live nearby jetports, he said.

The subcommittee hearings on aircraft noise controls will continue today in Washington, D.C. Additional hearings will be slated in the spring for several locations.

Cheaper, better produce aim of low-income co-op

Northwest Opportunity Center is organizing a food cooperative aimed at giving low-income families lower-priced and better quality fresh fruits and vegetables.

Judy Gorski, social, said the opportunity center hopes to open the cooperative within two months in the warehouse behind its office at 8 W. Colege Dr., Arlington Heights.

The cooperative is intended primarily, but not exclusively, for Northwest Opportunity Center clients, Gorski said. About 25 families already have expressed a willingness to participate. The opportunity center hopes to attract 50 to 60 families into the cooperative, she said.

"The cooperative will work exclusively on a pre-order system. Families will be able to place their order Monday and pick up their food on Thursday," Gorski said. "Each family will have to devote some time to working at the co-op."

Families can save up to 40 per cent, depending on the growing seasons and what they order, she said. "And even when there may not be a savings, we feel the quality will be better."

The cooperative will deal directly with growers and wholesalers — at first only for fruits and vegetables — but gradually expanding to meet all of a family's grocery needs, Gorski said.

Opening date of the cooperative hinges on approval from the Village of Arlington Heights fire, health and zoning officials.

Persons interested in the planned co-op can visit the Northwest Opportunity Center in Arlington Heights or call 255-3456 for more information.

The way we see it

Illinois needs fiscal plans

Once again there is confusion about the condition of Illinois' finances, and once again there is no need for that confusion.

For followers of Illinois politics, this year's cries of doom from State Comptroller George W. Lindberg sound familiar. But, based on his statistics, there may be real cause for alarm.

Lindberg reported last week that the state's operating cash balance had dropped to $12 million by Dec. 31. In a budget of nearly $3 billion, such a limited reservoir is considered by many experts to be dangerously low.

During the past three years of Gov. Daniel Walker's term, the subject of Illinois' financial health has been debated frequently. At times it has sounded like a replay of the debates between Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III in the early 1970s.

The one reality in this partisan squabbling is that Illinois officials desperately need to present a comprehensive picture of the state's financial condition. In the early heat of this year's campaign, one plan has been proposed which might produce that picture.

Michael J. Bakalis, a Democratic candidate for comptroller, has called for creation of an intergovernmental economic information commission. The group, to be composed of all major state officials, would be a clearinghouse for state financial information.

Working with an advisory committee of Illinois economists, the group would issue statements which then would become the basis of good financial planning.

Bakalis' plan represents a step away from the meandering and unplanned nature of budgeting that seems to have become a tradition in Illinois.

Other approaches should be considered, too. Perhaps economists from other states should be called in to help straighten out Illinois' financial affairs. Perhaps existing bipartisan legislative commissions should be used more effectively to help produce the clear picture needed.

Whatever the method, one truth is certain: Illinois is practicing horse-and-buggy financial reporting in an era of jet-age planning and accounting. We'll continue to teeter near financial chaos until that system is strengthened.

Suit threats unneeded

Wheeling officials again are under the gun of developers who want approval for building projects.

The new regime of village trustees is beginning to lose count of how many developers have filed suit because their plans for new developments have been defeated.

Ironically, it was the developers who were at the other end of the gun once held by Wheeling politicians when the latter tried to extort money and favors in return for zoning approvals.

While these politicians were punished for their wrongdoings, the developers apparently learned a lesson — harassment can pay off.

We deplore this continuous string of lawsuits and threats of lawsuits against a group of village officials who are trying to serve their constituents in the best possible manner.

No village official should be put in the "either approve or get sued" position when he is trying to work for the benefit of the residents he represents.

We urge Wheeling Village Board members to stand by their decisions and, if needed, continue to go to court over the projects and force the developers' hand.

That is the only way to determine who can out-threaten whom.

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 1976 with 345 to follow.

The moon is moving toward the last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Pluto.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.

Civil War Confederate Gen. Thomas Jonathan Jackson — known as "Stonewall Jackson" — was born Jan. 21, 1824.

On this day in history:

• In 1861, Jefferson Davis resigned from the United States Senate, 12 days before Mississippi seceded from the union.

• In 1908, New York city enacted the "Sullivan Ordinance," which held smoking in public by women illegal.

• In 1954, the world's first atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus, was launched at Groton, Conn.

• In 1968, a U.S. Air Force B52 carrying four reportedly non-explosive hydrogen bombs crashed off Greenland.

A thought for the day: President Harry Truman said, "The responsibility of the great states is to serve and not to dominate the world."

Doesn't anyone know how the ice is?

'Donations appreciated'

Fence post
letters to the editor

We of Schaumburg Township, again, making a vain attempt to thank so very many individuals and organizations for being "ambassadors of good will" for those less fortunate.

We cannot find any new words or catchy phrases to express genuine appreciation to the many who made donations, both large and small, to another family at Christmas time.

To the organizations that each year make contributions — we hope that we can continue to count on you to provide the donations of Christmas toys, dinners, clothes and money. The Schaumburg Women's Clubs, Schaumburg Jaycees, Schaumburg Jaycettes, Schaumburg Community Life Program. To the other organizations and individuals who have made contributions — may you feel that it was a worthy project and consider it again in the future.

Thanks to Debbie Brown of Schaumburg High School, Welcome Wagon of Hoffman-Schaumburg, Barrington Square Association, Girl Scout Service Unit 660, Our Redeemer Church, St. Peters Pack 196-Den 3, Mrs. Sharon White, Mrs. Rick Geu, Hanover Park Lions Club, Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg Nurses Club, Dunbar Lakes Condo II, Christian Church Crusaders, Cub Scout Pack 492, Weathersfield Lake Association Girl Scout Troop 980, St. Peters Lutheran School, Mrs. Rita Tempenson, Data-Com, Children's World Nursery School, Christ The King Youth Group, St. Marielline Confirmation Class, S & H Senior Citizens, Motorola and Illinois Bell Telephone.

To all of you — thanks for helping the people in our community. The response was overwhelming in a time of economic hardships and on behalf of those who received — Christmas was indeed a bountiful and happy holiday.

He supports justice

Recently I read with saddened interest an article your paper carried from UPI entitled, "Army against compensating Indians for 1890 battle." As the title states, the U.S. Army is opposing legislation which would grant $3,000 to each of the heirs of the 146 Sioux Indians killed at Wounded Knee, South Dakota. The Army voices its opposition on the grounds that the incident was a battle, not a premeditated massacre as "popular conception" would have it. Further, argues the Army, "It is undisputed that an Indian fired the first shot." Most important though, the Army feels that a precedent would be established that might allow other impoverished Indians to seek retributions from the Great White Father.

Completely placing aside the issue of whether the occurrence at Wound-Knee was a massacre of Indian people or a military action, the basic concern must be justice. Consider what the U.S. government, by premeditation and design, has done to the original owners of America. Pursuing a program of deception, theft and genocide the U.S. government was able to wrest all lands west of the Mississippi from the Indians in less than 50 years. Always, it was the "Indian who fired first" which enabled the military to engage in mass annihilation and the thievery of millions of acres of land, stolen, bloody land. In dealing with the Indians our government created standards of deception unequaled in civilized history.

The issue is justice; simple yet complex. Is the government responsible to the poor victims of a 19th century Indian battle or can we dismiss the shame; after all, "the Indians fired first."

Series praised

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Tom Wellman on the excellent series on regulatory agencies and regulatory reform.

I was especially interested to note your references to my efforts here in Congress to secure some measure of significant reform in the regulatory arena. As you may know, I serve on the Republican Study Committee's Task Force on Regulatory Reform, which is active in support of the legislation to reform the Occupational Safety and Health Administration Act.

Thank you, again, for sharing the results of your research with the public.

Hapsburg Inn happy

Thanks to Katherine Boyce for the fine review which she wrote about Hapsburg Inn in The Herald. Other articles have been written about Hapsburg Inn over the years, but her article was by far the most successful in presenting an accurate picture of Hapsburg and conveying a sense of its atmosphere.

Reprisals?

Europe upset by Concorde

by JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON (UPI) — A Concorde personic jet carrying the British ors will take off from Londo Heathrow airport at 11:30 a.m. toc and head for Bahrain on the Persi Gulf.

At the same time another Concor painted in the French tricolor v leave Orly airport at Paris for Rio Janeiro.

British Airways' and Air Franc first commercial flights by Concor which has cost far in excess of $3 b lion to build, are being hailed by bo countries as a much-needed natio triumph in an age when neither nati has much to celebrate.

BUT THE TRIUMPH is tinged w deep bitterness and mounting ang that the United States so far has wi held overflight or landing rights the Anglo-French jet.

That means Concorde still is barr from the prestigious and money-ma ing routes from London to Paris New York. There already have be threats of reprisals if the Unit States continues to refuse the rights.

A joint statement by the British a French governments issued while U Transportation Secretary Willia Coleman was holding hearings Concorde in Washington two wee ago said menacingly: "A negative cision on the question of Concorde s vice to the United States undoubte would have political consequences both France and the United Kin dom."

ALTHOUGH officials of both cou tries deny reprisals are planned, t statement has been interpreted wide as a threat of boycott or heavy ta ation on American-built aerospa equipment.

French labor unions have threa ened to refuse to service or hand America's Pan American World Ai ways or Trans World Airlines plan at French airports.

Gerald Kaufman, Britain's aer Space minister, says, "The gover ment and people of Britain a France would find it difficult to b lieve that the United States, the m successful of the world's nations the field of aviation, would take ste to exclude this aircraft."

But there is a deep, long-standi suspicion in both Britain and Fran that it is the U.S. aviation industr that for competitive commercial re sons is backing the environmental a guments being used to try to bar Co corde from the United States.

THE LONDON Daily Express sa in an editorial:

"The American aircraft industr has been trying to kill it for years Fortunately, there are honest Amer cans who oppose this campaign."

In France, President Valery Gi card d'Estaing has tossed down th gauntlet to the anti-Concorde lobby i Washington and New York by a nouncing publicly he will fly in Co corde when he arrives for a state visi May 16.

The Communist-dominated Genera Confederation of Labor has aske Giscard to proclaim a boycott o American goods if the United State finally bars Concorde. And it sai French airports must be barred t American airliners.

COLEMAN, who held a full day o hearings on Concorde in Washingto on Jan. 5, said he plans a decisio within 30 days.

Even if his ruling is favorable there have been ominous warnings i may be challenged in Congress an the courts, and that New York's Por Authority may continue its ban on th supersonic jet.

If this happens, officials in Londo and Paris predict a sharp deteriora tion in relations with the Unite States, with reprisals far from ruled out.

LOOKING FOR A JOB: An applicant talks to counselor Michael Williams, right, at the Illinois State Employment Service in Mount Prospect. Specialists advise flexibility and awareness of skills and experience when seeking employment.

Area employment specialists advise

'Be flexible when seeking a job'

by LEA TONKIN

It happens suddenly. You're out of work, discouraged by the tight job market.

Don't give up, advises Gerry Aiuppa, placement officer at Oakton Community College, Morton Grove. Ms. Aiuppa and several other employment specialists emphasize flexibility and awareness as a job seeker's best bet in the search for suburban employment.

"Employers seem to perfer hiring local people," Ms. Aiuppa said. She advised out-of-work students and other job hunters to check area job listings, then match their skills and experience to the jobs.

"IT'S A MATTER of adjusting to the trends," Ms. Aiuppa said. "Today is the day of career changing. The key words are flexibility and awareness of what is going on."

"Be aware that we're gone from a manufacturing area to a high service area," she said. Environmental science, mass transit, and urban renewal are fields in which people with good technical skills may land a job, she said. Accounting, medical professions, engineering, computer science and chemistry are other active job markets.

Keep an open mind when it comes to location and salary, Ms. Aiuppa said. "And it's a good idea to do research on a company before applying. It will impress the employer that you've taken the time to consider the company."

A sampling Northwest suburban employment experts' opinion includes the following advice for job-hunters:

• Interviewing skills are important, said Jerry Marks, manager of Fanning Personnel of Arlington Heights.

"In the first part of an interview, they should listen," Marks said. Do more talking when you've heard a description of the job opening. "Let the employer know if you're interested in advancement," Marks said.

He notes that applicants who seem too aggressive will lose the job. "One girl was interviewing for a job and when the personnel manager asked where she'd like to be in 10 years, she said she'd like his job," Marks said. "The guy makes $25,000 a year."

• "Take every avenue. If you have a problem, talk to an employment counselor," said Everett Callaway, manager at the Illinois State Employment Service office, Mount Prospect. New job listings are posted by the employment service every day, Callaway said.

He said applicants can use the state's new self-service job information system to check area job openings. Job listings can be checked on a viewer, and the applicants arrange interviews through a counselor. Computer science, medical and accounting jobs are among those listed by the agency.

• Start with self-analysis, said Fred Vaisvil, a placement director at Harper College, Palatine. "Analyze what you enjoy doing," Vaisvil said. "Then look at your skills and experience — what you've gained recognition for."

Vaisvil said the next step is to write a resume. "Then find out as much as you can about area companies. After this type of self-analysis, it's pretty important to know what's available," he said. Although it's difficult to put your best foot forward in an interview, he said, a review of your skills and the job market will ease the strain.

• Personal qualifications such as maturity, initiative, poise and ability to work with people are first in importance for college graduates who seek employment, said Frank Endicott in the recent "Endicott Report 1976" outlining employment trends.

Endicott, director of placement emeritus for Northwestern University, said grades are second in importance, followed by specialized training in technical and other fields. Part-time employment, campus activities and liberal arts courses also may count, he said. Although job openings will increase in 1976, grads must work hard to compete for a position, he said.

• Most workers are not aware that the U.S. economy has changed from industrial to service, said Howard Dubin, Illinois Service Director president. He said a check of the directory listings shows the fastest growning services in Illinois, other than government include medical, security, data processing, architecture, business consulting and recreation.

Dubin said the Northwest suburbsan area is gaining more service jobs than any other area in the state.

Stock prices hit 26-month high

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors, jumping aboard the new year rally bandwagon, shouldered aside profit takers Tuesday to drive prices to 26-month high levels in the second heaviest trading session in New York Stock Exchange history.

The turnover of 36,640,000 shares was second only to the 38,451,260 shares traded last Thursday and left veteran Wall Street observers almost breathless. It was the seventh session this year in which 30 million or more shares were traded, matching 1975's entire record.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up around a point at the outset and off more than two points later, climbed 6.14 points to 949.86, closing at the highest level since its 956.58 finish Oct. 31, 1973. The blue-chip average, a 14.09-point winner Monday, has gained 97.45 points through the first 13 sessions of the new year.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index rose 0.54 to 98.86, a 1975-76 high, and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 17 cents. Advances topped declines, 957 to 568, among the 1,919 issues crossing the tape. The 394 unchanged issues reflected investor uncertainty and wariness.

Most analysts said they were not surprised by the earlier profit taking pressures since the market had risen sharply during the first two weeks of the new year.

Over-all, the investment community found few surprises in President Ford's speech Monday night. Wall Street welcomed his statement he would see tax breaks for low-and middle-income wage earners who invest in stocks. However, there was some criticism of his austerity budget.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by two cents. Volume totaled 3,130,000 shares, compared to 3,230,000 traded Monday.

Government holds key to economy

by RICHARD HUGHES

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American economy, a model of free enterprise, doesn't live up to the name. Like it or not, government dominates the system.

Federal, state and local government spending constitutes more than one-third of the nation's total $1.4 trillion in output of goods and services. And government domination is growing.

At the present growth rate, says Sec. of the Treasury William E. Simon, government will account for 60 per cent of the total in 25 years.

GOVERNMENT IS, by far, the nation's largest employer. One out of every five workers is employed by government, and 30 per cent of all personal income comes from the public payroll.

Government indirectly controls the jobs of almost everyone else through fiscal and monetary policies imposed by Congress and the President and by the Federal Reserve Board.

Fiscal policy simply is how much Congress and the president decide to spend. Monetary policy is how much money the Fed will print to accomplish the spending. The two are not always in balance.

With the nation recovering from the worst recession since the Great Depression, the practical debate among economists and public officeholders is how much stimulation the government should provide.

It is one of the curious laws of economics that people and governments spend themselves into recession and then have to spend their way out of it.

THE CHIEF cause of the current recession was excessive government spending on goods and services that did not result in an appreciable increase in consumer goods or the nation's productive capacity.

But, at the same time, heavy government spending on the Vietnam War, space and environmental programs and welfare, put lots of money into circulation for consumers to spend.

With ample money in circulation and reasonably full employment, goods and services, including credit, were in heavy demand and shortages developed not only in consumer goods but also in basic materials for industry.

Following the law of supply and demand, prices and interest rates rose. As prices rose higher, consumers and businessmen anticipating higher prices in the future, hoarded goods as a hedge against inflation. This worsened the supply problem and drove prices even hgher.

The Federal Reserve tightly restricted the amount of money available and brought about a credit crunch.

CONSUMERS STOPPED buying but businessmen misread the signs and did not bring production into line with demand. When they finally realized what was happening, the cutback in production was sudden and brutal. Millions lost their jobs. Factory output fell to 65 per cent of capacity.

Now that the worst is over, programs, including the rebate on 1974 taxes and the cut in 1975 and 1976 taxes, are in place to increase the money supply, put more cash in the pockets of consumers and loosen credit restraints.

The purpose is to encourage consumers and businesses to spend, thereby boosting production and increasing employment.

Economists generally agree stimulation is necessary to sustain the recovery, but they are split on how much the economy can absorb without creating future problems.

Some argue that the course followed by the Ford administration is more than sufficient, assuring a slow recovery that will not fuel inflation in later years. Others agree the recession left so much slack in the economy government could do much more to bring unemployment down without causing inflation to flair again.

Cost of interstate calls up

Consumers will pay higher rates for interstate telephone calls following the approval Monday by the Federal Communications Commission of a $225 million rate increase for American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Illinois consumers also face the prospect of increased service rates as the Feb. 4 deadline approaches for an Illinois Commerce Commission decision on an Illinois Bell Telephone Co. rate increase request.

The FCC action is designed to allow AT&T a 9.5 per cent rate of return compared to the current rate of 8.74 per cent. The utility had asked for a 10.5 per cent return, or additional revenues of $660 million. The commission said AT&T can increase its rate of return to 10 per cent through increased productivity rather than tariff changes.

In January, 1975, AT&T asked for a rate increse of $717 million. The FCC said further hearings were unnecessary. The utility later said economic change made it necessary to ask for $660 million in addition to a $365 million increase granted on its initial filing.

Illinois Bell Telephone Co. asked the ICC for a $178 million annual rate hike. If the full increase is granted, the average monthly bill for residential customers will increase $2 and there will be a 20-cent charge for each call to directory assistance after the first three calls each month.

Early to bed, early to rise makes swimmers quit

Bob Gallas
Staff Sportswriter

A little over a year ago, Paul Reeff came to the Northwest suburbs to head the Prospect High School swim program. A successful coach in the state of Washington, Reeff promptly turned the program around. His team, which won one meet the year before he came, went 9-5 last year and could very well end up the year at 10-1 this season.

But instead of having even better years at Prospect to look forward to, a quirk in scheduling his team's practice pool time all but spells the end for the school's swim program unless something can be done and soon.

You see, the Prospect team, like all High School Dist. 214 schools, doesn't have a school swimming pool and must work out arrangements with nearby park districts for pool time. Last year, the team practiced after school at the Mount Prospect Park District's Kopp Pool and also had early morning swim time for swimmers to make up missed workouts.

But all that's changed this year since the park district decided it needed the after school time for its learn-to-swim programs, even though every other park district in the area somehow manages to give high schools after school practice time and schedules learn-to-swim classes either in the late afternoon, evenings or Saturdays.

The result means Prospect swimmers must practice at 5 a.m. five days a week and at 7 a.m. on Saturday or they don't practice at all. You can guess the results of forcing boys or girls to get up that early and push their bodies to the extreme, then go to school all day and then perhaps to a part time job.

The early-morning hours have led a number of Prospect swimmers to quit the team, especially the first-year swimmers who haven't had a chance to have much success at the sport and hence their desire isn't as intense.

Reeff is used to adversity. A 1968 AAU champion in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 21.1 seconds, his swimming career — and almost his life — was ended when his car went over a 412-foot high cliff.

Both ankles and wrists broken and suffering from a skull fracture and eight broken ribs, Reeff managed to get halfway back up the cliff trying to go for help, before help arrived.

Doctors credited a pair of $300 custom-made boots, which gave his ankles support, with keeping him from being a cripple.

Reeff is trying to deal with his current problems, especially fatigue, but it won't be long before he won't have any swimmers to deal with.

"We had about 30 freshmen interested in coming out for swimming," Reeff said. "They took one look at that 5 a.m. starting time and now we have four freshmen," Reeff said. "And now even my stars are questioning whether they will come out next year."

"I can understand it. I know how cranky I am after being on this schedule since August," Reeff said. "You just can't expect a kid to be in bed every night at 8 o'clock. Our society just isn't set up that way."

Even though most freshmen are gone this year, Prospect's hopes for continued good swimming teams still have a chance. If better pool time can be found, Reeff could salvage things by coming up with a good crop of freshmen next year. But after that, well, figure it out for yourself.

There appears to be little hope for a change. Everyone involved is properly sorry, of course, but no one seems to be able to do anything about the situation.

Prospect athletic director George Gattas admits the early-morning workouts are hurting the swim program. "But I can understand the park district's side," Gattas said. "If they (park district) wanted to use our gymnastics facilities after school, I wouldn't make our team come back at night," he said.

Gattas would not fault the park district. "We've had nothing but good cooperation from the park district. They're trying to help everybody," Gattas said.

The reason for the change in the high school's swimming time is due to pressure that came from park district residents in Mount Prospect who complained about not enough swimming lessons being available, according to Thomas W. Cooper, director of Mount Prospect Park District.

Cooper, like everyone else, said he was sorry about the whole situation, but offered "no hope" that things would be changed in the future as far as the park district was concerned.

"I know some parents from the high school are upset over this, but I think they're a minority compared to the flack we got without the swim lessons," Cooper said.

Parents at the school are greatly interested in the team. When a request for some $2,000 in equipment was not acted on by the district this year, parents raised about $3,000 to buy the team equipment. Some have looked into the problem, but no solutions have been found so far.

Other schools in the district don't have Prospect's problems although trying to run a swimming program anywhere without school pools is like trying to run a basketball program with no gym. A group of parents lobbied for pools and other school improvements last year, but those efforts were tabled indefinitely when school officials pulled out figures of declining enrollments and talked about possible future school closings.

Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows share the pool adjacent to Buffalo Grove which is owned jointly by the park district and Dist. 214. Wheeling and Hersey share the Wheeling pool which is adjacent to Wheeling and has the same joint ownership. Arlington and Forest View has the same setup at Arlington.

Elk Grove has the same setup as Prospect, a pool that is jointly owned by Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and a park district, but the Elk Grove Park District gives the Elk Grove swim team an almost ideal setup — two hours of time split up, from 7-8 a.m. and 3-4 p.m.

"We can't afford not having lessons," Cooper said. "We satisfy more people this way and take in more revenue," Cooper said.

It will be a shame if things don't work out. A coach with Reeff's credentials doesn't need a job in a dead-end arrangement and you can safely bet, although Reeff is saying no such thing, that there will be other schools interested in his talents.

But don't count him out yet. He may just walk up the cliff again.

Volleyball action shifts to sectional

by PAUL LOGAN

"You think to yourself — what if, what if. . ."

Forest View volleyball coach Denise Van Huele was recalling the feeling she and her Falcon team experienced after attending last year's inaugural state meet as spectators.

Most of the 608 teams that began district play are probably wondering right now what went wrong with their plans for going downstate. Only 64 advanced into sectional play this week with their dreams still intact.

One of those teams is Forest View. Another is Schaumburg. Both are from the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League. And both are in the same sectional tournament at Northbrook's Glenbrook North High School.

Schaumburg will meet defending state champion New Trier East at 7 p.m. and Forest View will go against Libertyville at 8:30 p.m.

"Considering the fact that we played Schaumburg and lost to Schaumburg and played Forest View and lost to Forest View, yes I would consider us the dark horse team," said Bonnie Beach, New Trier's coach.

The New Trier Indians have a 9-5 record, but it's deceiving because their game is together.

"We've been serving much better than we had during the regular season," said Beach. "Before Christmas vacation, we were having problems."

The Saxons of Schaumburg coach Mary Maher also had their problems earlier in the year. Their record is 10-6.

"They're determined," said Maher of her team. "They had a taste of it (tourney success and pressure) last year, making it to the (district) finals."

Schaumburg won the Glenbard North District by defeating St. Edward of Elgin, Rolling Meadows and Hoffman Estates in the finals.

Forest View had a little tougher route, having to defeat Lake Park, Hersey and Maine West. The latter two were conference champions.

Gretchen Hausmann's Libertyville team has had tremendous success over the past three seasons, rolling up a 38-4 record. This season the Wildcats are 15-2, having lost to Eisenhower and Barrington. The latter loss cost them the North Suburban Conference title.

Four Wildcats have been tourney tested. In 1975 they lost just once — in the supersectional to New Trier East.

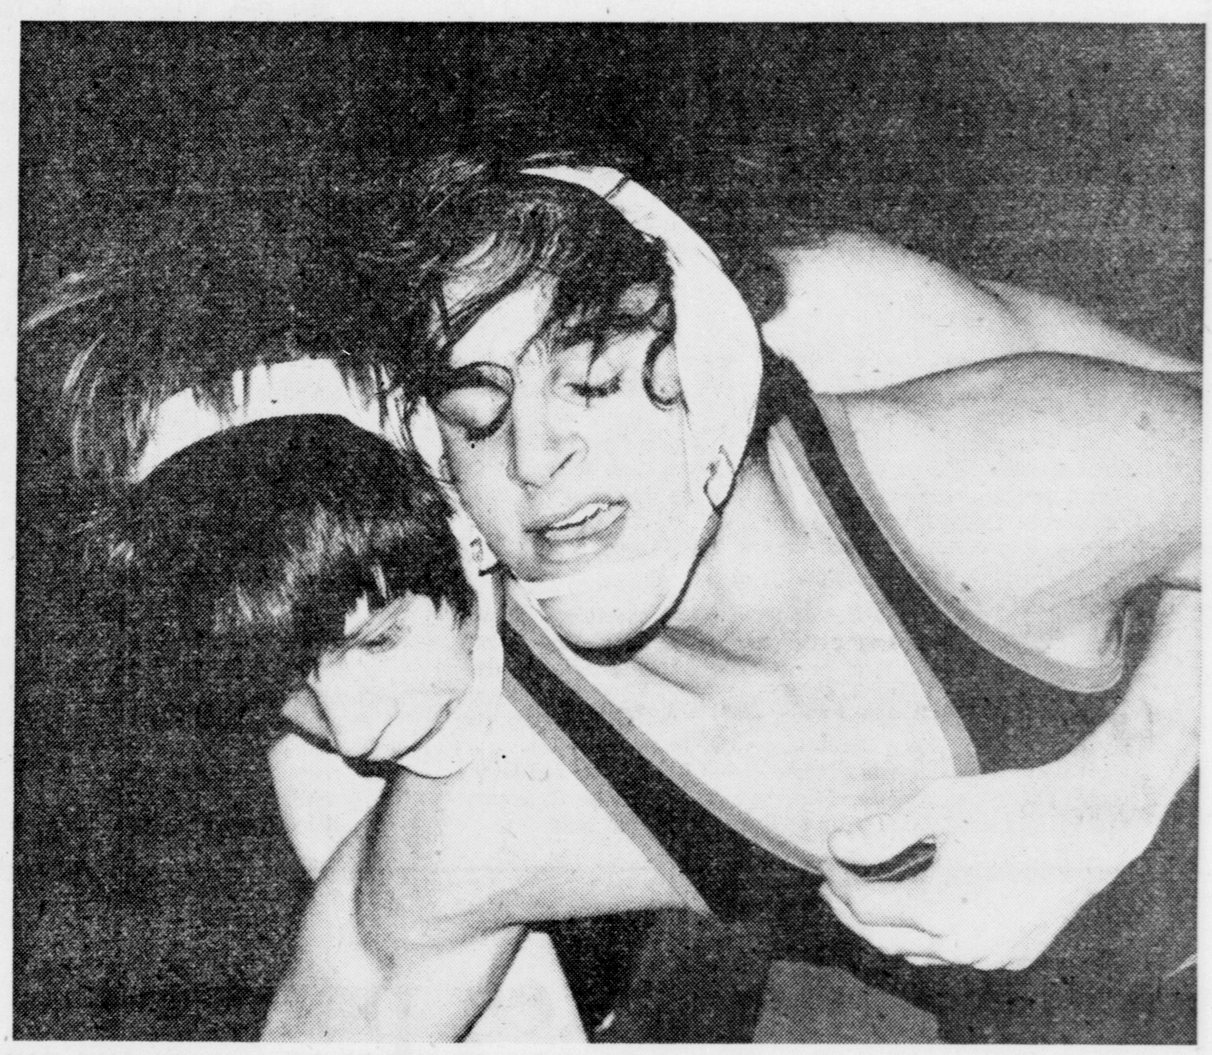
"We're pretty balanced," said Hausmann. "If somebody goes cold, we have what I think is a strong bench. . .which is unusual for volleyball."

Forest View has an equally outstanding record over the year — 36-8. Coach Van Huele's Falcons have played plenty of matches this season en route to a 21-3 record. They've lost to Prospect, Naperville Central and Maine South. Included in their victory string was a win over Barrington.

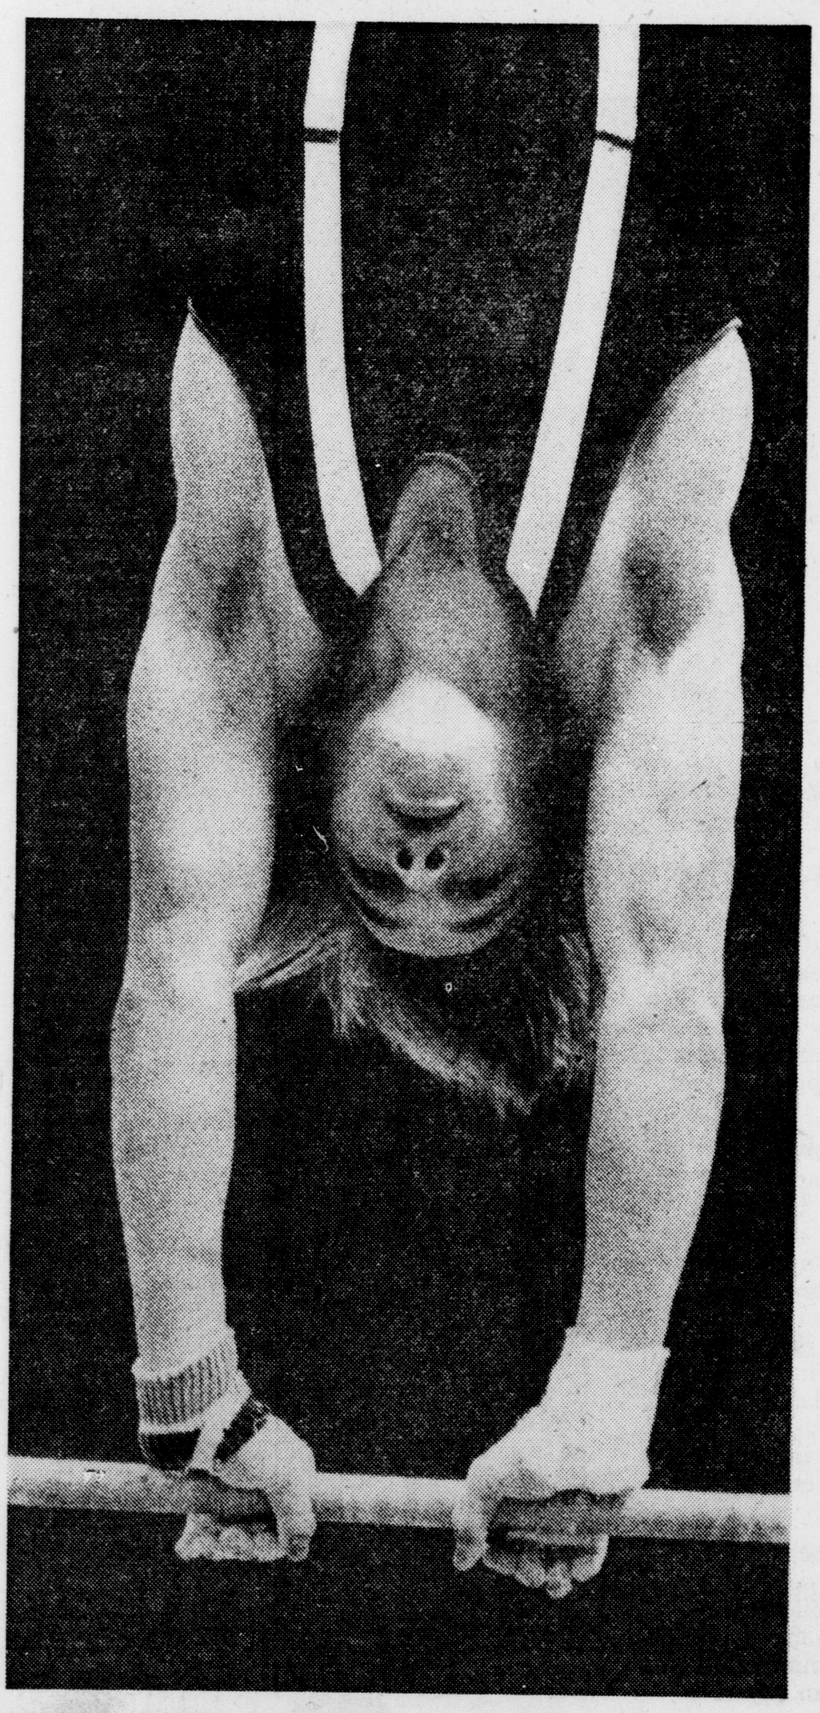
"It takes a long time to put together an offense," said Van Huele. "We're trying to work so that everybody knows where the other player's going to be."

Van Huele as well as the rest of the sectional coaches want to go downstate next week as participants, not spectators.

"There's going to be some super volleyball played around here," she added. "It's a shame that some of these schools will have to lose."



HAIL DALE. Wheeling's Dale Walters gets in some riding time on John Pusatera of Hersey en route to a 5-0 triumph in their 126-pound bout. Despite Walters' efforts, the Huskies posted a 26-18 victory in the North Division meeting. (Photo by Bob Finch)



BUFFALO GROVE'S Dewey Deal tossed a 6.95 on high bar and a 6.84 on all-around to lead the Bison to a 128.32 to 125.42 dual meet win over Arlington last week.

Murray Handicap System will protect the hustled

Jim Murray

Golf is a game in which your handicap is gauged by a variety of criteria, mostly scores posted.

Since this is susceptible to finagling, most gambling golfers use a listed handicap only as a basis for negotiations — for openers, in other words. They very carefully check a variety of other more-dependable indices, such as swing, equipment, nerve, daring and the amount of sunlight on your cheeks recently or callouses on your hands. Most matches between strangers provide for an "adjustment" after nine holes — or sooner, if necessary.

I, however have an alternate method of determining strokes, designed not as an aid to the hustler but as a protection to the hustled as this golf season officially begins on television and you start thinking about those warm summer afternoons on the course.

I'm more interested in the victim for a change. Accordingly, I would establish the Murray Handicap System, which is unlike the Callaway or blind bogey. I would give shots to luckless players who do not know they have been taken advantage of BEFORE stepping on the first tee. Below is a table of the reasons together with a fair assessment of strokes to make up for the shortcomings caused:

1 — For having read a golf instructional book the week of the tournament you play — 10 shots.

2 — For EVER having read a golf instructional book, no time limit — five shots.

3 — For having a club in your bag you just purchased which says "Sure On" or "Perfect Out" or Flag Jammer" or "Easy Up" — eight shots.

4 — For having taken a putting lesson from your brother-in-law at any time in the past five weeks — six shots.

5 — For having watched a golf tournament live and having followed Arnold Palmer more than nine holes — six shots.

6 — For having bought any mechanical aid like a series of straps to hold your left arm straight or a mat with footprints in it to give you a "power position" or an electric rug putter cup — 10 shots.

7 — For playing with any putter that looks as if it was originally forged as a prosthetic device or torn off a factory boiler — four shots.

8 — For coming to the club and being put in a foursome with the retired couple from Peoria and the wife shows you the pictures of the grandkids by the first hole and the husband gives you his cure for lumbago or a rundown on his pacemaker and the woman hits the ball 13 yards on the fly every time and 68 foursomes play through — 20 shots.

9 — For coming to the club on a day when the greengrocers' convention is on the fairways, all of them half-loaded and only a few of whom have ever played the game before and it takes you 4t minutes a hole and you get hit twice by guys playing out of the woods on another fairway — 20 shots.

10 — For playing in a brand new pair of Foot Ecstasy shoes which have 19 buckles per shoe and cement soles and you feel as if you are walking around with two buckets of tar tied to your feet which blister by the second hole — six shots.

11 — For playing behind four middle-aged members' wives who are catching up on their gossip and won't let you play through — 15 shots.

12 — For playing in the new vermilion and persimmon-colored slacks your wife got you for Christmas — four shots.

13 — For playing on a day you sneaked away from the office piled high with work or slipped out the back door while your wife was lining up a list of chores for you to do around the house that day — six shots.

14 — For playing behind the movie star who has three sixsomes, each member of which has his own cart, golf instructor, astrologist and bodyguard — six shots.

15 — For being partnered with a guy who keeps telling you about the 68 he shot last week at Oakmont while he's busy shooting a 93 on YOUR Nassau — four shots.

16 — For playing with any pro in a tournament where he keeps saying, "Now take your time, we NEED this putt," so he can win the pro-am money and you can develop a permanent eyd tic — 10 shots.

17 — For playing with a guy who keeps telling you what you're doing wrong and trying to correct it and keeps saying, "Wait a minute, hit another one and this time keep your elbow (arm, head, leg, eye, ear, nose or throat) straight!" — 10 shots.

18 — For playing with a guy who lies 3 off the tee before he hits a shot in the woods and the next time you see him he's standing on the green with the ball in his pocket and he says, "Give me a 5 there" — two shots per hole.

Hudson's charge helps sink Bulls

Lou Hudson scored 16 of his game high 19 points in the last period Tuesday night to lead the Atlanta Hawks to a 100-86 victory over the Chicago Bulls, their fourth straight defeat.

Hudson, who had been averaging 14 points, closed out the Bulls' chances to win when he scored 12 of the Hawks' first 16 points in the last period. Chicago trailed by eight at 70-62 going into the fourth quarter.

High man for Chicago was John Laskowski with 18 points.

The game got off slowly with Chicago taking a 6-0 lead before Atlanta's first basket. Laskowski scored 10 straight points to give the Bulls their biggest lead at 16-8, but the Hawks came back to trail only 22-21 after one quarter.

In the second period Chicago had a 6:50 span without scoring a basket but managed five free throws as Atlanta built up a 53-39 lead at the half.

Hot rumor becomes fact; Stram new Saints' coach

Hank Stram returned to the National Football League Tuesday as the head coach of the New Orleans Saints with a five-year contract totaling more than $1 million.

The hiring of the former Kansas City Chiefs head coach, which had been rumored throughout the league, was announced by John Mecom Jr., the Saints owner whose teams have never finished better than 5-9 in nine seasons in the NFL.

Stram, who coached the Chiefs to victory in the 1970 Super Bowl but was fired after his 1974 club posted a losing record, said he would "spend every available moment" revitalizing the club. He said he felt the Saints coaching job was the most attractive of several pro openings.

"I've always had a strong feeling for John; I've known him for a long time," Stram said.

Stram replaces interim coach Ernie Hefferle, who took charge of the Saints midway through the 1975 season when Mecom fired John North.

Brad Smith on West team

Brad Smith, former state high school champion from Hersey and now a standout at Iowa, was named Tuesday as a participant in the annual all-Star wrestling match between the East and the West Feb. 2 at the University of Wisconsin.

Smith, a senior at Iowa, will work in the 142-pound bracket and will wrestle Mike Frick of Lehigh.

Smith's West team will include three NCAA champions: Shawn Garel, a 118-pounder from Oklahoma; Chuck Yagla, Iowa's 150-pounder; and Oregon State heavyweight Larry Bielenberg. The East has two NCAA champs in Michigan State's Pat Milkovich at 134 pounds and Lehigh's Mike Frick at 142 pounds. Additionally, the East has four 1975 NCAA place-winners and the West has two.

Rival coaches, Wisconsin's Duane Kleven for the East and Iowa's Gary Kurdelemier, announced their squads Tuesday for the contest which is sponsored by the National Wrestling Coaches Assn.

Prince of Wales Conference skates to 7-5 All-Star win

The dynamite line of Peter Mahovlich, Rick Martin and Guy Lafleur accounted for 10 points Tuesday night to power the Prince of Wales Conference to a 7-5 victory over the Clarence Campbell Conference in the 29th annual National Hockey League All-Star Game.

The only consolation for the Campbell Conference was provided by Vancouver's Dennis Ververgaert, who set an All-Star record by scoring two goals in the span of 10 seconds.

Mahovlich, a big center for the Montreal Canadiens, equalled three All-Star records by scoring a goal and three assists and was named the game's MVP.

Lafleur, Mahovlich's Montreal teammate, and Martin of the Buffalo Sabres each had a goal and two assists in a winning effort.

The Wales Conference, by scoring six consecutive goals, enjoyed a 7-1 advantage after two periods, equalling the score by which it won last year's All-Star Game.

Dogs pioneering diabetes cure

Man's best friend is now helping as a pioneer in the search for a cure for diabetes, reports Gaines Dog Research Center.

A front page article in the highly respected British newspaper "Dog World" recently told the tale of a cream Standard Poodle suffering from diabetes. When all else failed, the owner agreed to have the dog treated with a new drug. That was three years ago.

The stricken dog improved rapidly and today is termed the "picture of health." The drug, which is manufactured in Denmark, is now being used in Britain on humans suffering from the disease. The newspaper reports that it is "especially suitable for children."

The Poodle's owner kept careful records of all stages of the dog's illness and treatment and these have been useful to British scientists. The Poodle and his owner also have been visiting camps run by the British Diabetic Assn. for children with the disease. As a result, the dog has become a symbol of hope for many.

Dogs from every state —

Dogs owned by exhibitors from all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Bermuda, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico are entered in the 100th consecutive annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club. This is the first time in the club's history that every state in the Union has an entrant in the competiton. The show will be held Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9-10, at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

In order for a dog to be eligible for entry at Westminster, it must have been credited with one or more championship points.

There are 3,060 dogs entered, with the largest number, 726, coming from New York. Illinois has 113.

Park Shore K.C. match —

On the local scene, Park Shore Kennel Club, Inc., will hold its ninth all-breed, A.K.C. sanctioned "A" match on Sunday, Feb. 15, at Buffalo Grove High School Field House, Dundee and Arlington Heights Rds. Buffalo Grove.

Closing date for entries is Feb. 5. For information and entry blanks, contact the match chairman, Nancy Fingerhut, 945-4819 or 679-4646.

No favor —

If you take your dog South with you for a winter vacation, you may be doing him no favor. Heartworm disease, once confined mainly to the South, has spread North and has become a real problem.

Don't let your dog pick up this disease and bring it back home. The mosquitoes that spread the disease are still around in the far southland, and your dog can be bitten.

Football coaches to play cage game for Keefe Fund

A special exhibition basketball game involving football coaches from the North and South divisions of the Mid-Suburban League will be held Wednesday evening, Feb. 4, to help in the education fund for the children of Dave Keefe.

Keefe, who died of cancer New Year's Eve, was the head football coach at Prospect High School.

The Prospect Booster Club has organized the event as part of their continuing effort to raise money for the Coach David Keefe Fund. Anyone wishing to donate money should make checks payable to the Coach David Keefe Fund, Mount Prospect State Bank, Mount Prospect, Ill. 60056.

The basketball exhibition will match coaches from all levels of football and will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Prospect Fieldhouse. Additional details will be released later as preparation continues.

St. Viator takes pair in Metro for slim lead

St. Viator maintained a slim, two-point lead over Maine South in the standings of the Metro High School Hockey League by taking a 6-5 win over Rolling Meadows and a 6-2 decision over Palatine in last week's action.

Maine South, meanwhile, was knocking off Palatine, 7-4, and Fremd, 9-2.

In other action, Maine East beat Fremd, 7-4, Arlington downed Hersey, 6-1, Arlington and Meadows tied 4-4, and Maine East tripped Hersey, 3-1.

Viator took a 5-2 edge into the third period against Meadows before the Mustangs rallied for three quick goals. Only a goal by Viator's Pearson cinched the victory. St. Viator got two goals each from Thompson and Gullett.

In the win over Palatine, St. Viator broke open a close game in the final period when O'Shaugnessy and Gullett tallied.

Maine South and Fremd battled to a 2-2 deadlock after one period on Sunday before the Southmen went on a rampage. Outshooting Fremd 22-1 in the second stanza, Maine South blasted out to a 8-2 lead before Fremd could react. Goals for Fremd were by Muncey and Hoffman.

Winless Hersey jumped out to an early lead Sunday against Maine East on a goal by Rogers, but the Eastmen took the lead with a pair of second-period scores by Pappas and Mandrala. Hess scored to seal the 3-1 verdict.

Maine East had dumped Fremd on Thursday despite two goals by Fremd's Aquino and one each by Davis and Dudziak.

Sweeney scored a goal with just two minutes to play to give Rolling Meadows a 4-4 tie with Arlington on Sunday. Arlington had downed Hersey on Thursday behind two goals each by Penkava and McGuire.

STANDINGS — St. Viator 16-2-0 32, Maine South 15-3-0 30, Maine East 12-6-0 24, Palatine 10-7-1 21, Arlington 6-10-2 14, Rolling Meadows 6-11-1 13, Fremd 5-13-0 10, Hersey 0-18-0.

TOP SCORERS — Krippner (MS) 28 goals, 15 assists, 43 points; Heller (MS) 18-16-34; Thompson (SV) 20-30; Lammersfeld (ME) 17-13-30; Aldana (Pal) 13-15-28.

TOP GOALIES — Fischer (MS) 2.34 goals against; Turner (Pal) 2.54; Strang (SV) 2.58.

Economy keeps boat inventories down

He who hesitates about buying a boat at the show that opens today in McCormick Place may wind up high and dry come summer.

That, at least, is the opinion of Marianne Napier, director of market research for International Marine Expositions, Inc., the show's sponsor.

Napier says dealer inventories of most boating products are at their lowest levels in five yeare. "The best way to insure getting the boat you want this year is to shop early," she said.

Napier traced the inventory situation to a series of crisis, beginning with the oil embargo of late 1973. Dealers began cancelling their orders and seemed genuinely surprised when the 1974 spring selling season turned out almost normal.

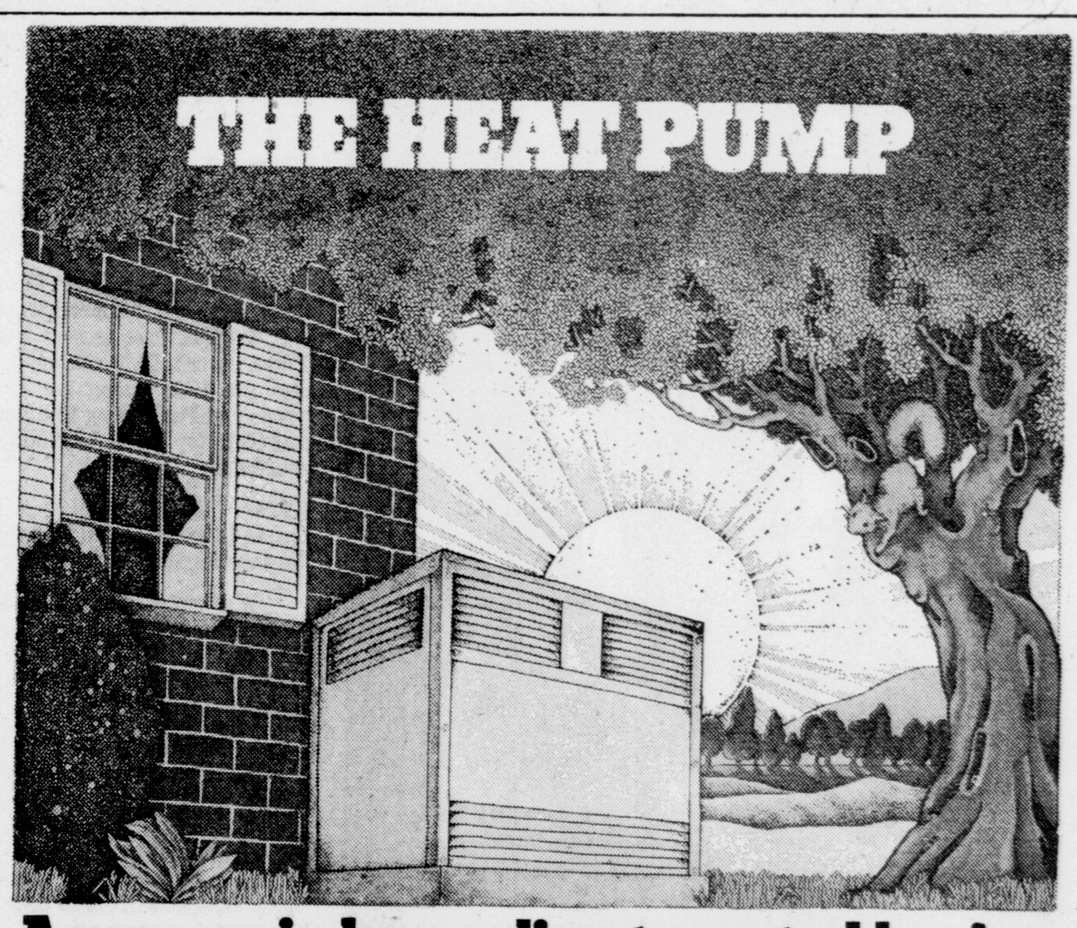
When they tired to re-order, they found that manufacturers had been hit by a shortage of the resins needed to make fiberglass boats.

"After that, the fears spawned by the deepening recession kept inventories at low levels through the remainder of 1974 and 1975. Again, the 1975 model year turned out to be a fairly good one — only about six per cent down from the industry's record 1973 performance.

Many customers found they couldn't get the boat they wanted when they wanted it. They either settled for another model or postponed buying. Dealers were almost literally taking new boats in the back door and selling themoutcthe front," she observed.

Though general business conditions are improving, Napier says that dealers are still being cautious. Inventory levels for the first quarter of the 1976 model year dropped even further for all product categories except inboard boats, she noted.

"Most manufacturers expect the situation to change soon, but then they've been expecting that for a year and a half. With inventories of outboard boats running 17.5 per cent below last year's levels, with sailboats down 9.4 per cent and boat trailers down 11.2 per cent, the best advice I can offer is 'Buy em while you can'," she concluded.



A new era in home climate control begins

About forty-five years ago, scientists began developing a revolutionary heating device that uses the heat of the earth's atmosphere. They called it a heat pump. Today, it is the only commercially available heating system that provides an answer to shrinking supplies of fuel oil and gas.

How the heat pump works.
Basically, the heat pump moves heat from one place to another. Using electricity to run the device, it extracts heat from a limitless source—the heat in outdoor air. During winter, enough heat remains in the air—even on the coldest and cloudiest days—to be extracted by the pump and transferred indoors as clean, flameless heat. And during warm weather, the process automatically reverses, removing excess indoor heat and humidity—like an air conditioner.

Better efficiency.
In short, the heat pump does the job of both a furnace and an air conditioner. But there's an important difference. The heat pump produces more than 1½ units of heat energy for every unit it consumes. That's better efficiency than any other current heating system.

It's ready.
It's ideal for new homes because it won't be obsolete in ten years. It's not dependent on the fossil fuels that may not be available in the future. To the homeowner, that means significant long-term savings on heating costs.

The heat pump is a big step in the conservation of scarce fuels. And here in northern Illinois, the electricity you would use to capture the heat comes mainly from coal and nuclear energy, rather than scarce oil and gas.

To get the full advantages of the heat pump, it's important to get a quality product, properly installed and reliably serviced. For the name of qualified installers in your area, call G. W. Berkheimer (Westinghouse Distrs.), (312) 374-4411, or General Electric Co., (312) 496-6356. Conant, Hoffman collect league triumphs

UP FOR GRABS. This rebound is anybody's baby as Hersey's Tom Burzak (52) and Jay McDermott battle Buffalo Grove's Tim Stonerook under the backboard during the Bison's 47-41 showdown victory last Saturday. The 6-foot-6 Stonerook hauled down 11 rebounds to lead both teams.

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

The Conant Cougars shook off an atrocious first half with a 26-point third quarter to edge Forest View Tuesday night 55-50 in a Mid-Suburban South Division contest.

Both teams had a hard time getting started in the first half as Forest View took the lead at intermission 17-14.

Neither team shot well, with Conant hitting only seven of 25 in the field while the Falcons were seven for 16.

But Conant began to penetrate the Falcons' 1-3-1 zone and shot 10 for 13 from the field during the third quarter.

"We played our usual game in the second half," said Conant head coach Dick Redlinger. "We didn't even show up at the first half."

Two Brian O'Donnell free throws put the Cougars on top for the first time in the game at 35-33 with 32 seconds remaining in the third period.

Mike Frisch took a nice pass from Rob Totten to key a three-point play and Pete Scaffidi dumped in a jumper with two seconds left in the quarter for a 40-34 Conant lead.

Forest View found Jim O'Rourke inside repeatedly in the second half and he led all scorers with 20 points. He was strong underneath in the fourth quarter, but Forest View could get no closer than three points as Conant hit five clutch free throws, two by reserve guard Dave Plumb, down the stretch to preserve the lead.

"I can't take anything away from Forest View," Redlinger said. "They beat us everywhere but in the scoreboard. They're a scrappy team and pushed us out of our offensive patterns and stymied us completely in the first half."

O'Donnell led the Cougars with 14 points while Scaffidi had 12 and Frisch 11. Nate Adams had 12 for Forest View.

Hawks 'satisfying'

by PAUL LOGAN

Leading from start to finish, the Hoffman Estates Hawks defeated the visiting Fremd Vikings, 73-61.

"This is the first complete game we've played all season," said head coach Jerry Segebrecht. "It was a very, very satisfying victory."

The Hawks showed good movement throughout the game against the Vikings' man-to-man defense. Starring underneath the boards, especially on offense, was center Ron Warring. The 6-foot-5 junior frustrated several Fremd defenders with a 10-point first quarter which lifted Hoffman to an 18-12 lead.

Hoffman spread out the scoring in the second period while widening the lead to 33-24 at halftime.

Rick Kolze, Fremd's fine hustling guard, gave his team a big boost opening the third quarter. He scored two field goals in the first 10 seconds, the latter coming after a steal.

A pair of free throws by Kerry Field cut the margin to 37-34 with 5:16 remaining, but that was as close as Fremd could come to the stubborn Hawks. Two 20-footers by Joe Gajewski and John Staback put their team up 41-36.

Hoffman outscored Fremd 17-10 the remainder of the third quarter to carry a commanding 58-46 advantage into the final eight minutes. Hoffman's steady rebounding and a solid 1-3-1 defense helped keep Fremd from rallying.

The Hawks put the game out of reach in the final quarter at the foul line, sinking 11 free throws. Warring, who led all scorers with 19 points, hit on five of them.

"He really came of age tonight," said Segebrecht of Warring. "He moved tonight . . . played a real good game."

The Hawks, who hit on 50 per cent of their shots, showed fine balance behind Warring — Jeff Curtin 14, Gajewski 13, Derek Storm 11 and Staback 9.

The Hoffman coach also praised the floor play of Gajewski and the substitute role of Storm.

"Besides being a team victory, it's also a victory for the coaching staff — Bob Haskell, Jeff Spies, Dave Freeman and Dennis Ferguson," he added.

Fremd shot as well from the field as Hoffman and had one more field goal. However, Hoffman hit on 25 of 38 from the foul line compared to Fremd's 11 of 16.

Allsmiller reaches No. 5 status in career scoring

by KEITH REINHARD

Ron Kozlicki may get a reprieve.

The postponement would probably not last much longer than November however.

For the benefit of those scant few unknowing area basketball buffs, Kozlicki is the guy who played for Palatine way back in the year 1562 and established an area career scoring record that has been seldom bothered and never threatened.

Once a year someone gets out a scorepad and an adding machine and updates a whole list of local scoring champs. In recent times Prospect ace Tom Lundstedt has been bumped out of the No. 2 spot by Hersey's Andy Pancratz and Wheeling's Roger Wood. Even more recently Ken Pollitz of Elk Grove has slipped in among the leaders and Husky Dave Corzine has swooped through to move everyone down a notch.

Everyone, that is, except the impenetrable Ron Kozlicki.

No, he didn't actually play for the Pirates back in the 16th century. That number 1562 represents the hallowed total amount of points 'Koz' recorded during his prep playing days. Lundstedt came up over 300 shy when he turned in his uniform, Wood was still more than 250 away when he bowed out and Corzine missed the magic mark by better than a 100.

But now, enter . . . Brian Allsmiller.

Buffalo Grove's 6-8 standout opened the 1975-76 campaign in 24th place on the Herald Area all-time scoring list and has been plunking them in at a 27-point pace ever since.

Allsmiller's chances of overtaking Kozlicki this winter are, at best, slim. But, incredibly, the Bison bomber is only a junior.

Last weekend, when big Brian collected 22 and 20 respectively against Fremd and Hersey to help his club assume lone control of first place in the league's North circuit, he also took over fifth place on that illustrious list.

Allsmiller needs but eight more to leave Pollitz in his wake and the next long haul (139 points) will bring him up even with Wood and 42 short of Corzine.

To go all the way, Brian would need some help from his teammates . . . by way of titles in upcoming conference, district and sectional skirmishes. In only reaching the sectionals he could get in possibly ten more games and at 27 per, he would wind up the season in the 1520 range.

So relax Ron, wherever you are. But don't down any long-term tranquilizers: The kid from Buffalo Grove appears to be on his way . . .

The climb up the area scoring ladder

Brian Allsmiller started the season tied with Jim Sander of Palatine at 822 on the all-time Herald Area career scoring list. Here's what he's done since them:

Nov. 21, 1975—Struck for 22 against Cary Grove and zipped past Wheeling's Jack Bastable (824) and Arlington's Dan Donahue (839) on opening night.

Nov. 22, 1975—Flipped in 34 despite a loss to Crystal Lake and overtook Palatine's Mark Mara (848), Wheeling's Carl Fricke (853), Arlington's Chuck Close (856), Arlington's Ken Peters (869), Prospect's Al Black (870) and Palatine's Dave Hasbach (871).

Nov. 26, 1975—Opened the Mundelein Thanksgiving Tourney with a 25-point outburst against Carmel and left Rolling Meadows' John Hogan (883) and Elk Grove's Bob Prince (884) behind.

Nov. 28, 1975—Clicked for 34 again versus the host Mustangs on the second day of the tournament and surpassed St. Viator's Frank Hogan (914) and Paul Schrage (922) and John Seehausen (934) of Palatine to take over 10th place on the list.

Nov. 29, 1975—Capped the holiday meet with 21 against Warren and climbed over St. Viator's Chuck Grandt (939) into ninth place.

Dec. 6, 1975—Fired in 24 against Zion-Benton to hit 1005 and become only the ninth player in the history of the area to ever crack the grand point mark.

Dec. 29, 1975—After collecting 14 by midgame, was injured during a Christmas tourney game against Carl Sandburg at Rich South and hospitalized. His low production of the season was still enough to pass Arlington's John Brodnan (1107.

Jan. 9, 1976—Popped in 35 against Palatine and rocketed by Arlington's Steve Allen (1124) into seventh place.

Jan. 16, 1976—Connected for 22 against Fremd to move ahead of Prospect's Tom Lundstedt (1222) and Hersey's Andy Pancratz (1230) and into the top five.

State releases swim assignments; Hinsdale team to beat - again

Hinsdale Central, gunning for its 10th straight state title in swimming, will again be the team to beat when state title competition begins Saurday, Feb. 21 at 12 district sites across the state.

Hinsdale rolled up 307 points in the meet last year to easily outdistance its nearest challenger, Fenwick, by 221 points.

Seven area teams will compete on the district level at Arlington High School, including Arlington, Hersey, St. Viator, Buffalo Grove, Prospect, Fremd and Rolling Meadows hig schools.

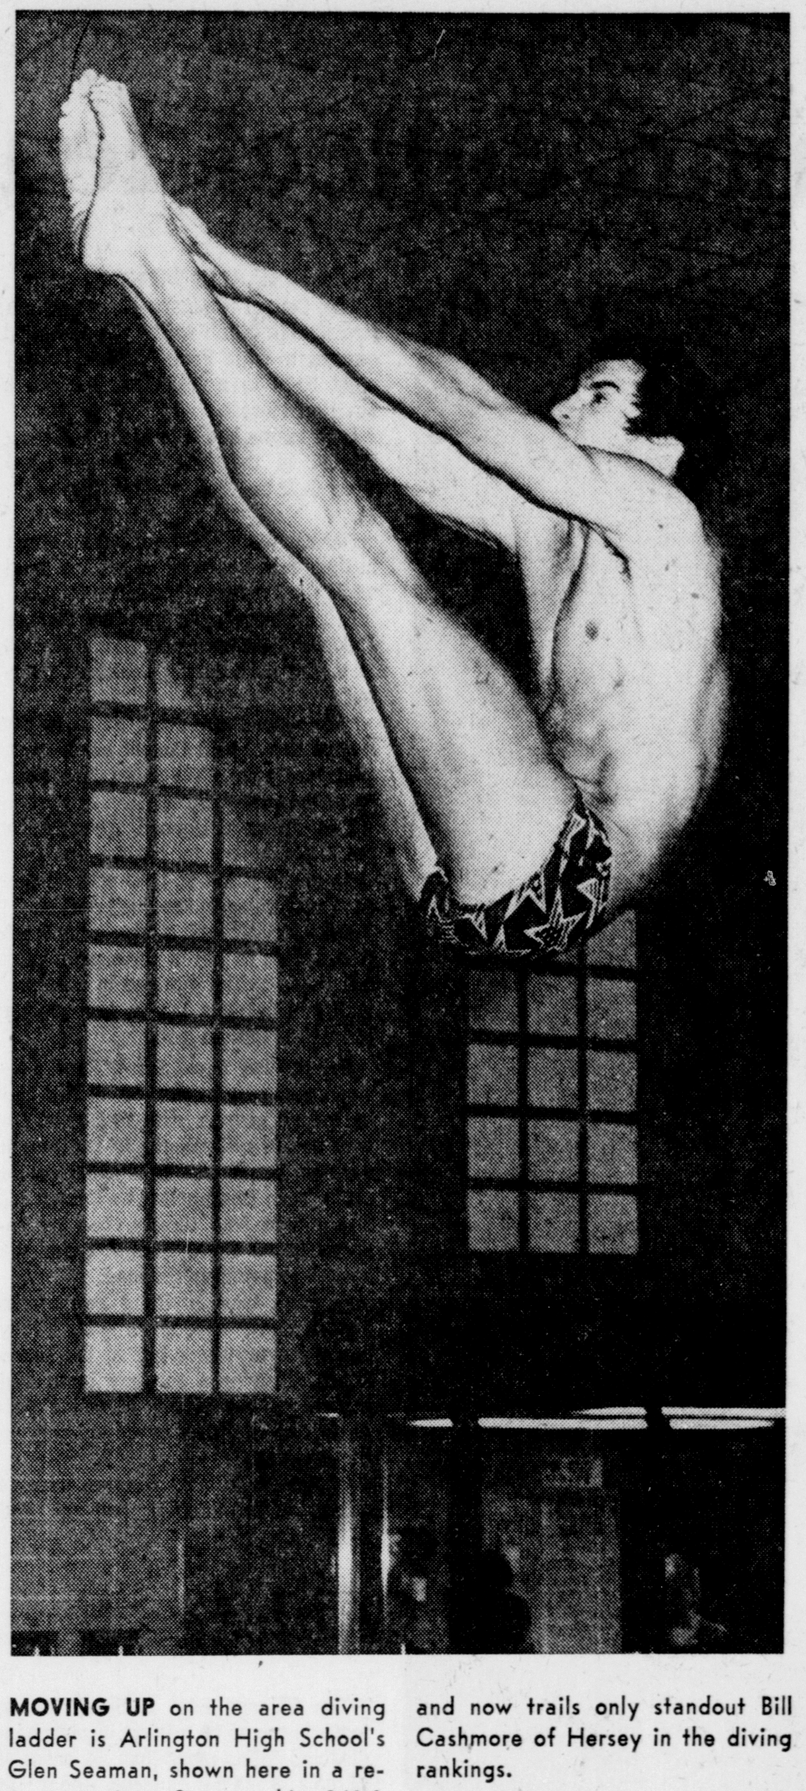
Another six area swim squads will compete in the Glenbrook South District in Glenview, including Forest View, Maine North, Maine West, Elk Grove, Conant, and Schaumburg

District finals at both sites will begin at 2 p.m.

First place winners in each swimming event along with the top four divers from each district advance to the state finals Feb. 27 and 28 at Hinsdale South High School. Also competing in the state finals will be the champions from the Chicago Public League qualifying meet.

In addition, any individual or relay team which equals or surpasses the minimum qualifying standard also advances to the state finals. Divers who equal or surpass the 18th highest score achieved by those divers who place in the top four in the districts will also advance.

Qualifying times for the 45th annual state meet this year are: 1:46.055 in the 200-yard Medley Relay; 1:52.055 in the 200-yard Freestyle; 2:09.55 in the 200-yard Individual Medley; 2[illegible].355 in the 50-yard Freestyle; 56.855 in the 100-yard Butterfly; 51.055 in the 100-yard Freestyle; 5:03.55 in the 500-yard Freestyle; 59.55 in the 100-yard Backstroke; 1:05.855 in the 100-yard Breaststroke and 3:27.055 in the 400-yard Freestyle Relay.



MOVING UP on the area diving ladder is Arlington High School's Glen Seaman, shown here in a recent session. Seaman hit 248.0 and now trails only standout Bill Cashmore of Hersey in the diving rankings.

Presidents Ford's golf game praised by Hope

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is potentially the best golfer to occupy the White House according to a player who has partnered four of the last five chief executives to occupy the White House.

Bob Hope, probably the best known non-professional golfer in the nation, reminisced about his golf outings with presidents during a weekend visit to Washington and gave this evaluation:

"Gen. Eisenhower was a terrific fighter on the course. He always battled after a bad shot and tried to keep his temper. But he fretted when he got in trouble and from the trees or sand you could hear some pretty good army profanity.

"Mr. Nixon was always a competitor and he still is when we play. I think his game is getting better now that he's out of the White House. He's more relaxed.

"President Ford is a big guy and he hits the ball tremendously. Potentially, he could be the best. In our last game together, he missed birdie putts on the last three holes and finished up par-par-par."

The 72-year-old entertainment star who still gets out on the course daily played only once with John F. Kennedy whose physical activity was limited by a back problem and never with Lyndon B. Johnson, whose penchant was politics, not golf.

According to Hope, all of the presidents he played with had to struggle with their tempers after bad shots, but never to the point of club-throwing.

Hope recounted a story of Kennedy trying to get an opponent to wheedle a three-foot "gimmie" putt without success. After several refusals, the late president remarked with a grin: "By the way, I'm seeing the Internal Revenue Commissioner after the match today."

The opponent promptly responded: "Pick it up, Mr. President."

Hope has played with politicians of every persuasion, foreign royalty, stars of the entertainment world and the greatest pros in the game since taking up golf as a Cleveland vaudeville performer in 1927.

"I got so mad the first time on a course, I threw the clubs away after having to let three foursomes play through on the first four holes," he recalled. Three years later, members of a brother act talked him into playing, and he's been an addict since then.

He relished a golf partnership with Belgium's King Baudouin on a Brussels course a decade or so ago.

"We were down $10 after the first nine," he related. "And we decided to double up to get even. I immediately shot a seven on the 10th and the king looked at me, shook his yead, and commented: "You must have a lot of money to throw away."

In Hope's view, pro Ben Hogan, who gave him lessons, was "The most devastating golfer I've ever seen," but he has a special fondness for Arnold Palmer, five-time winner of the Bob Hope Classic, coming up Feb. 4-8 at Desert Springs, Calif.

"I don't think he should retire," Hope said in reply to a question. "Arnie is golf's greatest crowd pleaser since they invented the portable sanitary facility."

Swimming

Camp Duncan

This past weekend saw the Camp Duncan Dolphin girls hosting an Invitational Swim Meet at their home pool in Volo, while the CDY boys traveled to Elmhurst YMCA for a dual meet.

Teams participating in the Invitational included Racine (Wisconsin), Elmhurst, Evanston, West Communities (Chicago) and Camp Duncan YMCA's.

Because the CDY swimmers would have dominated the scoring, there were no team scores kept, but rather awards were given to individual winners.

The Dolphin girls used this meet to qualify several of their swimmers for the National Championships, which will be held in Fort Lauderdale in April.

Girls who qualified for the Nationals in this meet were: Sue Cripe, Lynda Huebsch, Linnea Magnus, Chris Takata, Linda Walkowiak.

The Dolphin boys won easily over Elmhurst 207 - 127. The boys also used this meet to qualify Mark Funk, Mike Harvey, Jim Lindsay and Bob Tatosian for the Nationals.

Formco sweeps; Green's 703 heads Classic play

Bob Kula and Mike Heffner had the hot hands for Formco Metal Products as they swept Buffalo Grove Striker Lanes to move into first place in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

Heffner had the league's second highest series as he strung games of 235-258-188 together for a 681 series.

Kula's contribution came in the form of a 614 evening, amassed with scores of 191-199-224.

Formco took control of the match in the first game, burying the Strikers, 1,059 to 894. Mike Shoop, on his way to a 574 series, fired a 233 game.

Barry Stjernberg (202), Heffner (258) and Fred Hansen (206) hit well in the second game as Formco won 1,014 to 824.

Al Miller's 199-190-157-546 led the Buffalo Grove effort. The team is in seventh place.

Oost Produce rode the 235-195-192-622 series of Glenn Chesser to a sweep of Pickwick House and a second place spot in the league.

Rich Morres 201-183-224-608 was the only other 600 series tossed in the match.

Ken Smith's 174-214-190-578 was the top effort of the night for Pickwick House.

Oost ripped open a tight match, after winning the first two games by only 19 pins, in the third game with a 1,018 to 900 decision.

John Giovanelli, after a slow 176-150 start, hammered home a 595 series with a 269 game.

Teddy's Liquors used good balance from all five bowlers to nail five points from Des Plaines Ace Hardware.

Don Sawicki led the way with 186-227-173-586. His second game couldn't stop Des Plaines from averting the sweep with a 915 to 893 win with the help of Don Christensen's 213.

Beverly Lanes, without the help of Les Zikes, the leading bowler in the league, took five points from Dick McFeely Pontiac.

Bob Green took up the slack well, though, blasting out a 212-233-258-703 series, the league's high for the night.

McFeely's Carl Mackerer, the number two bowler in the Classic League, and Jim Reupert threw series of 617 and 615 respectively.

Reupert's 234 gave in the opening round averted a Beverly Lanes sweep.

Striking Lanes takes command with victory

Striking Lanes took command of the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League by winning five points from Thunderbird Country Club and moving past L-Tran Engineering, a seven time loser, into the league lead.

Bette Brelle's 179-192-213-584 series was the heart of the Striking effort. Eunice Whitmore had the only other 200-plus game, a 206 showing in the first round.

Thunderbird fought off the sweep in the third game with a slim 842 to 843 win. Marge Carlson (183), Dee Kachelmuss (180) and Jean Ladd (173) led the Thunderbird comeback.

Mary Yurs had a 227 game and 561 series for the Thunderbird's high.

L-Tran Engineering, who had been tied with Striking for league lead, lost all seven points to Ziebart and dropped to second place.

Ziebart's Peggy Harris (551), Carol Anderson (550) and Sue Capizano (544) led the way.

Anderson had the high game score for her team in the opener with a round of 212.

Lori Nichols' 177-195-173-545 was the best series turned in by L-Tran.

The fight for third place heated up considerably with five teams all having a shot at the slot currently shared by Ziebart and Ten Pin Bowl.

Ten Pin Bowl almost brought their season's mark to .500 as they swept seven points from Mason Shoes, who had been in second place before disaster struck this week.

Ethel Juenger (532) and Betty Peterman (527) were the big guns for Ten Pin as they won the match 2,530 to 2,400.

Sandi Malenk's 137-194-202-533 was the best effort provided by Mason Shoes.

Petterson Safety Service climbed out of the league basement by taking five points from seventh place Lass Excavating.

Bobby Kostelny had a 201 in the third round for a 535 series to lead Petterson. Nancy Porcelius (503) and Dee Harris (500) also cracked the 500-barrier.

Lass held off the sweep in the first game with an 892 to 845 win on the strength of a 210 game by Jan Broderick, whose 548 series was the high effort of the match.

Classics roll in same house

Bowling fans will have a chance to see three Paddock Classic leagues in action Saturday evening at Rolling Meadows Fair Laines. The juniors, men and women will roll with a 6:30 p.m. starting time.

Philip Morris Announces The First Major Step Since The Filter Cigarette.

'Enriched Flavor'™ discovery revealed for new low tar cigarette.

Ever since filters were first introduced to cigarettes the trend has been to limit cigarette tar.

And with every new refinement in filtration, the tar levels went down.

Unfortunately, in most cases so did the taste.

Regardless of all the "low tar, good taste" claims you've read; regardless of all the fancy filters and space-age filtering systems you've tried—your own taste told you: the less tar, the less taste.

This is a report on a new kind of cigarette.

MERIT. Only 9 mg. of tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

Yet with incredible flavor.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now—you'll be interested.

Smoke Cracked: 'Enriched Flavor'

After a twelve year research effort, a team of scientists at our Richmond Research Center succeeded in isolating the "key" flavor ingredients of tobacco as they exist in cigarette smoke.

By adding only those ingredients which were of extreme high quality as flavor producers yet low tar producing as well, we're now able to pack incredible flavor into a cigarette without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor'.

'Enriched Flavor'. It's extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't drop out, can't do anything but come through.

We packed 'Enriched Flavor' into the tobacco used to make MERIT.

And began an extensive series of taste tests.

The results were startling.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, all tested at home.*

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at only 9 mg. tar.

Anatomy of rape: traumatic, costly, often unpunished

by BARBARA LADD
(second in a series)

8:30 p.m. A young woman was raped in the Northwest suburbs. Call her Vicki.

Vicki is 18. National statistics report rape victims are as young as six months and as old as 93. Area hospital spokespersons report increasing numbers of raped teenagers from 12 on up, as opposed to older victims.

Vicki's rape occurred in January, although more rapes occur in summer than winter. One night after shopping, as she returned to her car parked in a well-lighted lot, a man grabbed her from behind, told her he would kill her if she didn't go with him, and forced her into his car. She didn't scream, she said later, because she couldn't think fast enough. (Statistics show screaming prevents rape in about half of all reported attempts.)

SHE WAS WEARING blue jeans, snowboots, a long tweed coat and a stocking hat — not exactly the stereotyped enticing outfit. (The Federal Commission in Crimes of Violence reports only 4 per cent of reported rapes involved any provocation on the part of the victims. About 75 per cent of all reported rapes are premeditated.)

8:45 p.m. Her attacker took her to a quiet, unlighted street and raped her in his car. (This is not the norm since more than 50 per cent of all rapes take place in a residence — usually the victim's home.)

Vicki was unable to escape by talking him out of his intentions or by struggling. She was unable to get the window open to scream.

She was scared. Vicki is a petite high school senior. The man was about a foot taller, 75 pounds heavier and very muscular. (Statistics show rape victims are usually four to five inches shorter and 25 pounds lighter than their assailants.)

10:45 P.M. After two hours he drove her back to the parking lot. The stores were closed, no one seemed to be around, so, crying, Vicki drove around for awhile trying to collect her thoughts. She finally went to a friend's house.

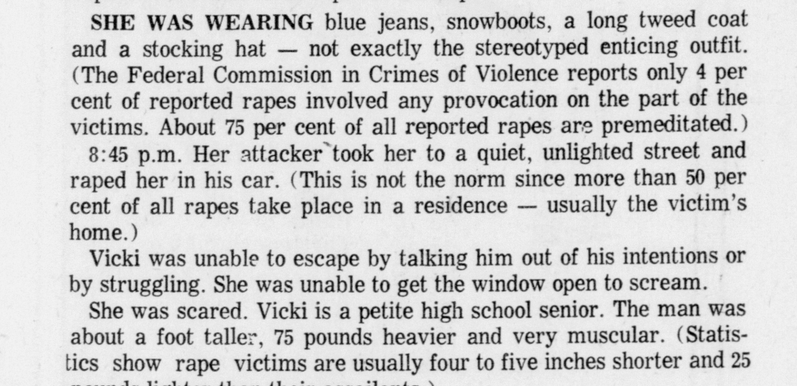
She was too upset to go home and face her parents.

Midnight. Her friend decided to tell her own parents and they, in turn, called Vicki's parents. The police were then contacted. (It is estimated that for every reported rape, about four unreported rapes have occurred.)

12:20 a.m. A squad car arrived and after a few minutes of preliminary questioning — mainly to determine if the attacker was in the vicinity — Vicki was taken to a nearby hospital.

12:50 A.M. The emergency room wasn't extremely busy so Vicki didn't need to wait long before she was registered and taken to the gynecological area where a doctor and a nurse made external and internal examinations. Even her fingernails were checked for hair, blood or skin as evidence of struggle. Her friend was allowed to stay with her.

Because the hospital was Catholic-sponsored, no medication was given to prevent pregnancy. However, the doctor did refer her to a gynecologist who could. (The referral gynecologist also could give the follow-up test for syphilis.)



The examination took about an hour. Three tests were given: venereal disease, sperm and general infection. With Vicki's consent, the information was released to the police, along with her clothes. Her parents had brought another set of clothing and stayed with her through the rest of the procedure. Vicki's friend left.

2 a.m. Vicki was charged $75. With the prospect of two more visits to a gynecologist, the total bill for being raped could easily exceed $100.

JACKI CARRIER, Alexian Brothers Medical Center director of ambulatory services, said private medical insurance might pay for emergency room treatent of rape. If Vicki isn't covered by medical insurance and doesn't have enough money to pay the bill, the State Department of Public Health might pick up the bill, a practice the department recently began.

2:15 a.m. A Cook County Sheriff's investigator met Vicky at the hospital. (Local police were not involved because the rape occurred in an unincorporated area of the county.) Some local police investigators interview rape victims thoroughly at the hospital, but the county sheriff's investigator waited until the medical procedure was finished before he took her to the station, where he questioned her extensively.

Testimony of Illinois rape victims given before the Illinois Rape Study Committee in 1974 established that some police officers were unnecessarily probing and lewd in their questioning, that they were anxious to make quick "unfounded rape" judgments, that little attention was given to the emotional needs of the victims.

Cook County Investigator Earl Lundquist said he and other investigators "primed" victims on questions so victims would know they couldn't "beat around the bush" in court.

OSTENSIBLY THE interviewer tries to determine first, penetration, and second, if the rape was by force and against her will.

A police artist came to make a composite drawing of the rapist but Vicki wasn't up to looking through the mug books (around 14 of them) at that time.

4:30 a.m. Vicki and her parents went home.

If Vicki's rapist is caught and she positively identifies him, Vicki will have to testify in a preliminary hearing. There must be enough evidence, known as "probable cause," to indicate there may have been a rape and that the rape may have been committed by the defendant. If the judge finds probable cause, the case will be bound over to the grand jury.

ONLY THE prosecutor and his witnesses, including Vicki, will appear before the 23-member grand jury. After consideration of evidence and testimony presented, the grand jury returns an indictment, known as a "true bill," if it believes there is probable cause.

An arraignment follows. The defendant and his attorney have the choice of requesting a bench trial by judge only or a trial by jury.

The attorney for the defendant may try to prove that the act was done by someone else, that Vicki consented to sexual intercourse or that there was no penetration (oral or anal penetration are not considered rape under present Illinois statute).

HE IS PERMITTED to offer testimony about Vicki's previous sexual activity, personal habits, reputation or credibility. No such testimony is allowed regarding the defendant.

According to Carolyn Krause, a Mount Prospect attorney, the court process can take a year or more. Only five per cent of all valid rape cases (as opposed to unfounded rape cases) end up in conviction of the suspected rapist in Illinois.

Advice varies

What to do in a rape situation

by BARBARA LADD

Advice on what to do if ever in a rape situation is coming from all fronts — police, women's movement leaders, medical authorities, physical education instructors. Seldom is one person's advice the same as another's.

For example, many police advise screaming to scare off an attacker and attract help from people nearby. Statistics show screaming defeats about 50 per cent of all reported rape attempts.

"But what happens the other 50 per cent of the time?" asks Frederick Storaska in his film, "How to Say No to a Rapist and Survive." The film is shown in many area schools and hospitals.

He feels screaming makes the attacker regard the victim as a threat. The rapist might then endanger her safety with weapons or beat her harshly.

AUTHOR Susan Brownmiller, speaking last autumn at a Chicago meeting of journalists, said females should "spiritedly" struggle. But Storaska disagrees.

He feels the rapist expects his victim to struggle. "Struggling entices him," says Storaska, the executive director of the National Organization for the Prevention of Rape and Assault.

He advocates the calm approach: try to talk the rapist out of his intention. "Empathize with the guy," says Storaska, and after the rapist no longer regards you as a threat, run.

Most, including Storaska, agree that self-defense techniques are useful, especially when psychology or screams don't help. Gouging the rapists' eyes and grabbing him in the testicle area of the groin "are guaranteed to work 100 per cent of the time," says Storaska.

KAY RUSSELL, psychotherapist at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines, said females should be aware of all the advice and decide for themselves what they would do in a rape situation.

Most authorities also agree what to do after a rape has occurred.

First contact someone you know and trust, said Linda Swanson, an Arlington High School self-defense instructor. Otherwise call the Chicago Rape Crisis Line or other counseling organization.

Then call the police "and don't destroy any evidence," she cautioned. Dr. Russell said not to even wash hands or change clothes.

AND IT IS IMPORTANT to try to recall details concerning the appearance of the attacker, Ms. Swanson said.

"If you are a friend of a victim," said Dr. Russell, "don't tell her to forget about it. Urge her to feel her emotions."

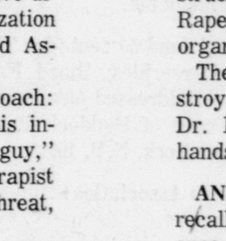
"She should pursue the case. Once she takes a helpless stand (by legally not doing anything) her self-esteem is affected," she said.

"So many women get involved in protecting others — friends, husbands, relatives, children — that they don't take care of themselves," she said.

Pros and cons of space program

Women and children first

by Julie Martoccio



The Apollo-Soyuz venture has come and gone but the memory lingers on. Each U.S. trip into outer space recalls that memorable day in 1957 when the Russians launched Sputnik I which marked the beginning of the Space Age. My own memory lane unwinds to the Southwest where, as a guest of Tucson writers' roundup, I listened to some science fiction writers lament — in dead earnest — the fact that such advances in space were preempting and ruining some of their best fictional plots.

Today, the space program is still a controversial subject but on a profoundly different note. The pros and cons are endless. But I wonder how many of us stop to think about a problem that will be with us forever. Space law touches and affects everyone on every spot of our globe.

Although there has been little publicity regarding their activities in Outer Space Law, the American Bar has created a historic work platform and is responsible for a great deal of vital space work to set in motion much of what is needed to handle present and future space problems.

Back in 1961, two University of Chicago scholars, Leon Lipson and Nicholas de B. Katzenbach published a "Report to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on the Law of Outer Space." According to the American Bar Journal, an article by S. Neil Hosenball and Pierre M. Hartman, March '74, the report came as a result of a contract the American Bar had with the N.A.S.A. in an effort to undertake a "systematic survey of the rapidly growing literature on space law."

THE STUDY dealt with such important questions as:

- Where is the boundary between air space and outer space?
- What is the legal status of regions lying beyond?
- Would it be possible for a country to legally claim what it found in space as for instance, natural or artificial bodies?
- If so, what would be the proper procedure?
- How can the U.N. charter and other international programs insure that space activities be and remain peaceful?
- How would radio frequencies be allocated to different countries and at the same time take into consideration geographical positions and determine how to make them equal in rights?
- Would it be lawful for one country to observe what another is doing in space?
- How about the scope and potential of remote sensing, probably the most promising development of the Space Age. Since there is no basis in International law on which to deny the right to orbit and use remote sensing satellites, will express consent need to be obtained from a country before it may be observed? (That's one of the many questions in remote sensing.)

SOME OF THE MAJOR questions have already been answered by the work of committees bearing intriguing, sentence-long titles such as "The Convention on International Liability for Damage Caused by Space Objects" and the "Treaty on Principles Governing the Activities of the States in the Exploration and Use of Outer Space, Including the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies," otherwise referred to as the Outer Space Treaty. But not completely answered is the allocation of space radio frequencies.

The United Nations' Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (C.O.P.U.S.) is responsible for the International Space Law that exists today.

There are also innumerable committees and subcommittees, agreements and treaties such as the "Agreement on Rescue of Astronauts," the "Return of Objects Launched into Outer Space."

Thousands of legal issues remain to be studied and solved. To give you a mere hint, here are some to ponder, the exploitation of lunar resources, activities in other celestial bodies beyond the moon, great social and political issues, economical and technical concerns, and even questions dealing with morals such as war.

The big issue is to determine progress in terms of peace and harmony rather than aggression. Those working in the space program, the technical and legal experts hope that working together they can eventually, with a coalition, bring results that are "out of this world" to benefit all mankind.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Drug can lower cholesterol level

I am writing in regard to taking Atromid-S for high cholesterol as many are doing. Is it harmful if taken over too long a period of time?

I have taken it for four years as prescribed by my doctor three times a day and it has helped. I watch my diet too. Could it be more beneficial if taken before meals instead of with the meals?

I have never had any reaction from taking it and have my cholesterol checked once a year or so.

Atromid-S is a popular medicine and it is helpful in most cases in lowering the cholesterol levels. However, it is not recommended for this use unless dietary management is also used to eliminate obesity and to help lower the blood cholesterol levels.

Despite its usefulness in lowering cholesterol, the more significant question of whether doing this with medicine prevents heart attacks or not, has not yet been answered. We hope it does.

There have been some enthusiastic reports of decreased rates of heart attacks in young men taking Atromid-S and the improvement was not related to lowering the cholesterol level.

There may be a good explanation for this. Atromid-S also decreases the tendency of the blood to clot. This anti-clotting action may be useful in preventing heart attacks. That in fact is the basis for the recent enthusiasm over the possible use of ordinary aspirin to prevent heart attacks.

No one knows exactly how Atromid-S works. Its action is apparently on liver function. The liver is the major metabolic organ involved in the body's formation of cholesterol and the formation of certain blood fats involved in fatty-cholesterol deposits.

Many people seem to tolerate Atromid-S for years without any harm at all. Like most medicines there is a list as long as your arm of things it can do. Almost all medicines that help the body can also harm it.

The one big precaution to users is that it decreases the tendency of the blood to clot, so if you take anticlotting medicines and Atromid-S you may need to have the amount of anticlotting medicine (blood thinners) reduced about half. Also since aspirin tends to decrease the normal clotting mechanism too, I think people taking Atromid-S should be wary of taking any significant amounts of aspirin on their own.

Occasionally the medicine affects liver function and has to be discontinued. By following the patient properly the doctor can tell this.

Some patients develop nausea and loose stools, excess gas formation and abdominal distress. Rarely headache, fatigue and even muscle cramps occur.

I suspect your doctor wants you to take the medicine with your meals to help minimize the possibility of irritating your stomach or causing nausea. You might be wise to follow his advice.

Considering the large number of people using this medicine and the rare and usually not important complications that have occurred, this is a fairly safe and good medicine.

Chuck roast recipe with festive touch

Dear Dorothy: I've been using three of your chuck roast recipes, for which I thank you. With chuck roast on sale every so often these days, I keep wishing you'd print one that has a festive touch. Any chance?—Pam Kessler.

Since you're a "regular," you know my recipes are basically simple and that I'm always disguising chuck to defeat his royal highness' flaky prejudices.

Place any nice roast in the center of a large piece of heavy-duty foil and brown the meat on all sides under the broiler. Then sprinkle with salt and pepper and any other herbs you favor, plus one-half pound of sliced mushrooms (or one six-ounce can of mushrooms, drained) and one small chopped onion. Crush one clove of garlic over this and pour over it all one-third cup of dry red wine.

Close the foil, double-folding the edges so the package is airtight, and bake at 275-300 degrees for three hours or so, depending on the size of the roast. You'll find, I think, that the wine gives the festive touch you're seeking.

Dear Dorothy: Here's a tip I think a lot of readers may find useful. My mother kept trying to thread a needle with polyester thread and she was wetting the end but still having a frustrating time. I told her she shouldn't wet the end of polyester thread because wetness makes the thread swell. Before threading any kind of needle with polyester she should cut the thread at an angle.—Jonel Monroe

Dear Dorothy: I have several small chips on glassware. Is there any way to smooth these out?—Mrs. Art Schneiders

I've made several glasses serviceable again by rubbing the chipped edges with a very fine emery board.

Session on stain removal

The homemaker of today is faced with the dilemma of how to remove stains from the many new fabrics on the market today.

Are you wondering if you can safely use chlorine bleach on your new polyester knits? Do you know the six basic stains? Can you identify them? Are you sure of which product to use for stain removal for a particular fabric? Do you remove stains from the outside or inside the fabric?

These and many of the questions you have will be discussed and demonstrated at the "Stain Removal" class planned by the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service. Thomascean Brandon and Dorothy Landgraf, cooperative extension advisers in home economics, will present and demonstrate proper stain removal methods at the class session.

Stain Removal is offered to the public free of charge next Tuesday from 10 a.m. until noon at the Rolling Meadows Farm Bureau Building, 4200 W. Euclid, Rolling Meadows.

Because of limited seating, phone reservations are requested. The Rolling Meadows phone number is 991-1160.

Make Bicentennial year special

When our neighbors went on vacation this past summer, they left instructions for their college-aged son to paint the house.

Well, he did. He painted the whole front of the house to resemble a huge Colonial U.S. flag, complete with 13 stars and stripes.

Of course, his red-white-and-blue project made the national news. The house was shown in newspapers and on television programs all around the country. For a while there was such a steady stream of sightseers in the neighborhood you could hardly get in and out.

That's one way to celebrate the Bicentennial. And, though few of us want to go to such extremes, it shows the right spirit.

What can you do to observe this nation's 200th birthday?

The choice is up to you, but certainly all 215 million of us should think about doing something just a little special.

If you're planning a vacation, you'll probably want to visit a spot of special historical interest.

Millions of Americans will be heading for the "biggies" — Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, New York, and the Williamsburg - Jamestown - Yorktown triangle. If you have any of these areas in mind, it's not a bit too soon to start making your travel plans — and confirmed reservations.

One beauty of the Bicentennial is that it truly is an all-American celebration. There will be happenings all over the country even right here at home, in the Chicago area and throughout Illinois.

One source of selected events throughout the country (plus handsomely illustrated maps covering "heritage roads") is offered by McDonald's. The company offers a free set of these maps (18 of them) on request from McDonald's Maps, Box 11189, Chicago, Ill., 60611.

You'll see other announcements and ads for Bicentennial guides, maps, and booklets. In fact, you might want to start a file of Bicentennial literature. But no single source can possibly list all the experiences available, so start now to check this newspaper for dates and details on both national and local events that might be of particular interest to you.

One nearby project that I'm looking forward to receiving information on is the opening of an outdoor museum in "Old World Wisconsin" at Eagle, near Milwaukee. Tied in with Wisconsin's theme of the diversity of people who made America, it's being completed by the Wisconsin Historical Society. The structures will preserve pioneer farmsteads of more than 30 ethnic groups that settled Wisconsin.

Elsewhere, there will be contests; booklets; exhibits. There will be package tours, and special ticket rates on everything from certain airlines to certain Amtrak trains. There will be bicentennial events and programs in just about every national park. There will be new memorials, museums, and restorations; pageants, craft shows, and spectacular displays. There will be bicycle tours and wagon trains; special trips via everything from canoes to vintage trains.

But with all this and more, let's hope that there will be one more thing: a renewed spirit of participatory patriotism; a new appreciation of our liberties and all that went into winning them and then safeguarding them for these past 200 tumultuous years.

In fact, the best way to celebrate the bicentennial might be simply to register to vote, then vote. Freedom to elect our representative government is what the bicentennial is all about.

More registered voters and bigger voter turn-outs in all the elections could be the most welcome birthday gift of all for these United States . . . and the surest way to insure that our descendants will have a tricentennial to celebrate, a hundred years from now.

The bride's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Watson, reside in Mount Prospect, but the groom's parents, the Ronald Jacobys, now live in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. They came north for the wedding festivities, in which the groom's sister, Lynne, was a bridesmaid, his brother, Ron, the best man and another brother, John, an usher.

PEGGY CHOSE her sister, Jane, as her maid of honor, and the other bridesmaids were Cathy Hallberg, Mount Prospect, and Nancy Komlanc, Morrison, Ill. Steve Rakow, Elgin, and Doug Heurich, Chicago, were the other ushers.

OATMEAL EATERS, HAVEN'T YOU HEARD ALL THE TALK ABOUT MAYPO?

It was the big nutrition story here last winter: Maypo, the only oatmeal fortified with 7 vitamins and iron. Food editors were writing about it. People were talking about it. Maypo was disappearing from the shelves. Now it's your chance. Grab a box of Maypo, the oatmeal with the good taste of maple, and see why so many more mouths are saying: I want my Maypo!

Ask Andy

Hornet eggs may hatch indoors

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Paul Winnerling, 11, of Lancaster, Pa., for his question:
ARE THERE EGGS IN A HORNET NEST?

Paul and his friends found a hornet nest in a back yard. They wonder whether it is safe to bring it into the classroom. After all, hornets are hot-tempered fellows, armed with stings. Perhaps the eggs, if any, might hatch in a warm room and become a hazard. Actually, the last eggs should have hatched in the fall. In any case, the young are helpless larvas that depend on adult worker hornets to serve them special food.

The insects we call hornets are large social wasps. They may be white-faced hornets or yellowjackets. In each case the social colony is ruled by the queen mother, who is about one inch long. She lays all the eggs, most of which become workers that take over the family chores of next building and bringing up the babies. Toward the end of the summer season, the queen hornet lays a few eggs that hatch into male drones and young queens.

Then she stops laying altogether and her workers all die before the cold weather sets in. Come winter, the old family nest is completely deserted. Meantime, the young couples have mated. The males perish but each female nestles down in a cozy hideaway where she survives the winter.

With the first breath of spring, she flies forth to establish a new hornet colony of her own. Her family, long ages ago, invented paper making and she uses this talent to start the nest. She chews, moistens and pulverizes bits of wood and molds the papery material into a few egg cells. She may attach the new home to a bough. It will be a small platform of cells, with the openings pointed downward.

The queen hornet tends her first small brood through the larva stages. When they hatch into adult workers she expects them to take over the nest building and baby-sitting chores — while she gives all her time to egg laying. Soon the busy workers add a new layer of cells under the original layer, with just enough space to crawl between. By midsummer the hornet nest looks like a big brown football — all made of wood processed into brown papery material.

When winter comes, the fascinating hornet nest is deserted. However, other larger solitary wasps often leave eggs to spend the winter in their cells. These types include the mason wasps and mud daubers. The lone female builds a few sturdy cells of mud. Through the summer she brings up several small batches of young hornets all by herself. Come fall, a few pupas may be left in their cells. They are expected to sleep until spring. But they may hatch in a warm room or even during a warm spell in the middle of winter.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the chronicles of Narnia to Lori Sase, 10, of Irvine, Calif., for her question:
ARE ALL LADYBIRDS RED?

This little pea-size beetle may be called a ladybird or a ladybug. It may be a male or female and different types come in different colors. The showiest types have jet-black dots on their bright red wings. There may be one dot on each wing, two dots or more than nine. Some types have black wings ornamented with vivid red spots.

But not all ladybugs wear red. Some are yellow or orange and their spots may be black or dullish brown. Most ladybugs are useful in the garden for they devour aphids and other insects that feed on our favorite flowers and vegetables. But the black sheep of the family feeds on leaves of the potato plant. This wretched little beetle has wings of drab brown, decorated with lighter brown spots. Altogether there are more than 300 different ladybugs and most types wear different outfits.

TV Saturation

by Ed Landwehr

Since TV made its debut about thirty years ago, nothing has so consistently increased from year to year. It's dotting the American scene with antennas and unwashed dishes in the sink. More than that, it is making us one big country family with its thought control. We tell the same jokes, hum the same tunes, eat the same junk food and wear the same styles. We even have the same pains so we can use the advertised pills. Regional differences have just about disappeared. Maybe this is good and maybe it's bad.

But, it's building a business like Landwehr's TV & Appliances. We have invested in the finest maintenance servicing equipment to better service electronics. Try us at 255-0700. We'll prove to you that we're different.

And when you're near 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, stop in and browse through our fine displays of nationally-advertised TVs and stereos.

Actress fell literally into TV role

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eileen Fulton figures that Lisa, the character she has been playing on "As The World Turns" for almost 16 years, in that time has had four husbands, 32 lovers, two children, one of whom was born out of wedlock, lost one baby and suffered a false pregnancy.

"We ought to have a sweet 16 party for Lisa," she said during an interview, her native North Carolina drawl still softening her voice.

Miss Fulton is ambivalent about Lisa, who was such a favorite that CBS even tried, unsuccessfully, to spin her off from the daytime soap opera to make her into nighttime competition for the then-popular "Peyton Place."

ON THE ONE HAND, Miss Fulton says with great emphasis, "I am NOT Lisa," indignant that unyone might confuse the minister's daughter from Asheville with the character soap opera fans love to hate.

Miss Fulton literally fell into the role shortly after she graduated from Sanford Meisner's Neighborhood Playhouse, which with Actors Studio, was one of the top acting schools in New York.

She was caught in the revolving door of the theater, which says you can't get a part without an agent, but no agent will take you on until you've worked.

"I was so frustrated," she said. "It was July 3 and it was hot and my feet were killing me."

She was outside the door of a well-known agent and she could hear him laughing.

"I KNOCKED and I heard him laugh louder," she said. "By then I was paranoid and I was sure he was laughing at me. I pushed with all my might at that door — how was I to know the door was being fixed? — and the door fell in. I went flying, my portfolio of pictures flying every which way."

The agent, impressed by a would-be actress who literally beat down his door, took her on and sent her over to try for, and win the role of Lisa.

She has cut a number of single records and several albums — her latest is labeled "Eileen" and made her New York supper club debut last April at the prestigious Persian Room of the Plaza Hotel.

South checks trump holding

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

South had a perfect hand to use Blackwood except for one disturbing feature. He could visualize hands where his partner would hold both missing aces and where there just wouldn't be enough ammunition to score 12 tricks. Hence, his three-club bid was an effort to find out what sort of two-spade bid North held. When North jumped to four spades, South felt he could afford Blackwood and when North showed one ace, South went to six.

South went up with dummy's king of spades at trick one and noted the fall of the jack from East. He also noted that there were potential problems so he led dummy's singleton heart. His king lost to West's ace and a second spade lead was taken in his own hand. Then he ruffed a heart, came back to his hand with the ace of clubs, ruffed his last heart led a club to his king, drew West's last trump and claimed the rest of the tricks.

Pros, cons of each examined

Unit vs. dual school district

by JUDY JOBBITT
Second of a series.

A unit school district would bring more state aid to local schools, provide a more coordinated education program, and save school districts precious dollars by cutting back duplicated administration costs.

Right, says Dean Mack, Illinois Office of Education director of school reorganization, who maintains a unit district is a fiscally efficient and educationally coordinated method of operating elementary and high schools.

Wrong, say many local board members and administrators who dispute the benefits saying consolidating elementary and high school districts would result in a loss of local control over the operation of schools.

The debate over the pros and cons of a unit school district will continue as long as the dual district system exists in Illinois.

FEW STATES allow the dual system of separate districts for elementary and high schools. Most states allow the unit system, where one administration and school board governs kindergarten through twelfth grades.

Of Illinois' 1,039 school districts, there are 444 unit districts and 594 dual districts. The largest concentration of dual districts is in Cook County which has 142 and only 2 unit districts.

The state has promoted unit districts to cut back on the large number of school districts in Illinois and to create larger districts in rural areas.

Several communities in the Northwest suburbs have discussed the idea of unit district consolidation in the past years including Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59.

THE IDEA RECEIVED extensive research in Dist. 54, but the resulting study was shelved.

A Dist. 59 citizen's committee conducted a study in 1973 but voted against a unit district recommending the concept be researched again at a later date.

That date arrived and Dist. 59's school and business community is involved in the early stages of researching the proposal.

The Dist. 59 school board appointed a committee and this fall hired a consulting firm to update the 1973 report.

Opposition already is surfacing from High School Dist. 214, which would lose about 40 per cent of its tax base and 30 per cent of its students if Dist. 59 went to the unit system.

CONVERTING A dual system to unit, however, has generally brought opposition as residents and educators react to the change.

When school districts were forming in Illinois during the early part of the century, it made good dollar sense to form dual districts. By having separate districts for elementary and high schools, communities were able to double their borrowing power for building schools and developing better programs.

But today dual districts no longer have a financial advantage.

THE LEGISLATURE passed laws in 1945 offering districts a financial incentive to consolidate into unit districts. The school state aid formula adopted in 1973 also offered districts a financial boost if they formed a unit district before July 1, 1976.

Consolidated districts in 1972 received more state aid than the total paid to separate dual districts, said Fred Bradshaw, Illinois Office of Education financial advisor.

For example, three dual districts receiving a total of $1 million in state aid in 1972 could have received $200,000 more that year if they had consolidated into a unit district. As a unit district, the three would have received $150,000 more in 1973-74, $100,000 more in 1974-75 and $50,000 more this year.

BRADSHAW SAID by next year the financial incentive will be eliminated because unit districts will receive state aid comparable to that received by dual districts.

Converting a district from dual to unit also can have its financial drawbacks.

Richard Short, superintendent of High School Dist. 214, said in the Northwest suburbs many communities without a large industrial and commercial tax base are combined with a community with a strong tax base in a dual district. To sever the residential area from the industrial by forming one into a unit district could create financial havoc. The residential community might not have a large enough tax base to support a good educational program, he said.

A PARALLEL situation was cited when Dist. 54 studied the unit concept. The district includes the villages of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates as well as portions of Elk Grove Village, Roselle, Hanover Park and Rolling Meadows.

Schaumburg, which includes Woodfield Shopping Center and major industrial parks, provides the bulk of the tax base for Dist. 54. If Schaumburg had pulled out of the district, as the study recommended, the remaining communities, which are largely residential, would have faced serious financial problems.

The pro-con unit debate continues when educators discuss how it affects the quality of education.

"It doesn't make a whole lot of difference whether you are a unit or dual district," said Edward Gilbert, superintendent for High School Dist. 214 who also worked on a unit district. "If you have an inefficient district, be it dual or unit, changing the organization won't improve it."

SHORT SAID the major question is whether a district is large enough to offer a good education program, not whether it is a unit or dual district.

"The structure of the organization is immaterial. The districts in this area are big enough to offer a good program," he said.

Gilbert and Short dispute the pro-unit argument that there would be better coordination of education programs with a unit.

"A total program for youngsters from kindergarten through twelfth grade is a good goal," said Short. "Whenever a youngster changes from elementary to junior high to high school, you'll run into coordination problems," Short said.

Coordination is difficult whether a district is unit or dual, he said. "It deals with people working with people."

GILBERT RECOGNIZED a unit district's administration "gives the potential for closer coordination between secondary and elementary schools." But he said his experience in unit districts show when there is a money crunch, the elementary grades often get slighted since the focal point of the community is the high school. "That doesn't have to happen but it often does," he said.

Dist. 59 Supt. Roger Bardwell disagrees the emphasis is placed on the high schools. "You can make either type work beautifully," he said. "It's just a question of which one you want."

Bardwell said he believes a unit district lets a community "arrange its priorities more equitably. In a dual district, your priorities can get all mixed up. You can't arrange them on a 13-year basis."

Short agreed priorities might be more equitable under a unit district, but said the advantages of having "experts" for certain age groups exceeds the advantages of having the full education program under one roof.

"WITH A DUAL district, you get specialists for certain levels and areas. Superintendents for unit districts must come from one of two specialties — either an elementary or secondary background," he said, pointing out most unit district superintendents come from high school backgrounds.

Gilbert said a dual system gives "both elementary and high schools a closer review and concern by the school board and administration. The dual system has that advantage — it permits a concentration of attention at both levels."

He said the split means high schools in a dual district area must be more autonomous to meet the needs of the youngsters feeding into it from the elementary districts.

He said Dist. 214 schools are given enough leeway to develop programs meeting these needs. High school principals also work to coordinate their programs with the junior high schools in their area, he said.

ANOTHER ADVANTAGE often brought up for the unit organization is the elimination of duplicated services. Instead of three superintendents — one for a high school district and one for each of two feeder elementary districts — one superintendent would be needed if these three districts combined into a unit district.

Mack said the number of administrators and type of administration organization is examined when districts ask for unit district consolidation. He said "in most cases there is a savings in administration" when a unit district is formed.

Many administrators and school board members refute this idea saying different types of administrators would have to be hired.

Lloyd Demel, board member in River Trails Dist. 26, said districts might cut costs because only one superintendent and business manager would be needed and these positions might be duplicated in dual districts. But he said the savings could be wiped out quickly because additional assistants, coordinators and central office help might have to be hired.

OTHER CRITICS say forming a unit district means loss of local control because one school board would take the place of two or more under the dual system.

Bardwell said this might not prove true and pointed to a Dist. 59 unit district as an example. By forming a unit district, the Dist. 59 community would have more representation for the high schools on the school board. Currently only one representative on the Dist. 214 school board is from the Dist. 59 area.

The debate over unit versus dual districts will continue as long as dual districts exist. But with the financial crunch and the public demanding better education for youngsters, the unit district remains a viable option for consideration.
